Pollard Acquitted in Richmond Murder Case

DECLARE POLICY OF RESISTANCE

REALTY DEALER FREED BY JURY IN GIRL'S DEATH

Verdict Reached in Less Than Two Hours' Time. Pollard Sobs in Courtroom.

VICTIM OF SHOOTING WAS FORMER ATLANTAN

Acquittal of Pollard Ends One of Most Sensational Trials in History of Virginia.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Richmond, Va., February 23.—Thomas Pollard, prominent young real estate and insurance broker and a member of one of Virginia's first families, was acquitted by a jury here tonight on a charge of murder in connection with the killing of his former stenographer, Mrs. Thelma Han Richardson, a pretty divorcee, who was shot to death at the Pollard home in the fashionable residential section of this city on the night of December 11, last.

The verdict was reported at 7:10 o'clock, after the jury had deliberated the case less than two hours. A hush fell over the crowd which filled the courtroom as the jury filed in and reported to Judge David C. Richardson that they had agreed. The defendant sat with his counsel, his eyes fixed upon the twelve men in the jury box. Sobs shook his body as the clerk of the court read the words which meant liberty.

Friends Crowd Pollard.
When the verdict was read and before the jury was discharged, Pollard's friends closed about him to shake his hand. His two brothers were among the first to congratulate him and a few minutes later he left the Hastings court building a free man.

The acquittal of Pollard ended one of the most sensational trials in Virginia's criminal court history, rivaling even the famous trial of Henry Clay Beattie, who paid the death penalty for the murder of his wife. The sordid details of Pollard's relations with the dead woman, extending over a period of months, were brought out by various witnesses and admitted by the defendant himself.

Was Former Atlanta Girl.
Mrs. Richardson, formerly Miss Thelma Han, of Atlanta, was shot to death on the lawn of the Pollard home on the night of December 11, following a quarrel with Pollard. She had gone to the Pollard residence in company with J. Mosby West for the purpose, the prosecution alleged, of seeking an understanding with Pollard concerning his attentions to Mrs. Bertha Louise Beck. There was a quarrel, a struggle and a flash of a pistol and Mrs. Richardson was killed by a bullet which penetrated her heart.

Pollard was arrested and West was held as an accessory. A few hours after the killing, Pollard was released, under $10,000 bond and a few days later the warrant against West was dismissed. Then followed the lengthy investigation by the police and state authorities. On January 4, the grand jury indicted Pollard on a charge of murder and the case was set for trial on February 12.

Nearly four days were required for the trial. The jury was composed of twelve men, six from each county. The trial was held in the Hastings court building, which was crowded to capacity. The jury returned its verdict at 7:10 o'clock.

Widow of Hindu Burned Alive On Funeral Pyre

Flames Consume Woman as She Holds Husband's Body in Her Lap.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Calcutta, February 23.—A case of suttee, reported from a village called Italy in Etawah district, indicated that the ancient Hindu custom of widow suicide has not yet entirely disappeared. Suttee is the name given to a Hindu widow who, to avoid the social stigma of widowhood, throws herself upon the funeral pyre of her husband and dies by the fire which consumes his remains. A British law making the abettor of a suttee liable to conviction for abetment of suicide or murder has tended to cause the rite to die out, but it is still practiced occasionally in some parts of India.

In the case reported from Etawah, one Ganga Din Ahir, 28 years old, died after a brief illness. His wife, Musammatt Rukka, three years younger, immediately after his death, announced her intention to become a suttee. Members of the family attempted to dissuade her from this intention, but she did not yield.

On the following morning when the body of Ganga Din was taken for cremation the widow dressed as a bride and followed, carrying several lighted candles. When the body was arranged for burning she walked around the pyre as a token of respect, then mounted it and sat with her husband's head in her lap while the fire was applied to the wood.

As a result of the woman's death, a criminal case was started against six men of the village. Three of the defendants were acquitted, and the others sentenced to four years' imprisonment. They claimed they had no knowledge of the woman's intention.

TURKS PREPARE NOTE TO ALLIES ON PEACE TREATY

Closest Secrecy Maintained on Tenor of Reply to Be Given by Angora Government.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Constantinople, February 23.—(The Associated Press.)—Turkey's answer to the peace proposals of the allied powers, as set forth in the draft treaty presented at Lausanne, has been framed by the council of ministers after protracted discussions in secret. The reply probably will be presented tomorrow to the grand national assembly and it is thought immediate action will be taken allowing submission of the answer to the allied high commissioners here next Monday.

The closest secrecy is being maintained in Angora respecting the tenor of the reply but interviews with Turkish deputies printed in Constantinople express general opposition to the allied proposals with considerable pessimism regarding the outcome of the crisis.

Dispatches from Angora say enormous crowds constantly surround the government building and that the belief is widely expressed that Monday will see a decision for "peace or war."

GREEK WILL SIGN IF TURKS ACCEPT

Athens, February 23.—In a newspaper interview today, Colonel Plastiras, leader of the revolutionary movement which brought the present regime to Greece, declared that if the Turks accept the Lausanne treaty Greece will sign the peace pact.

Colonel Plastiras was the chief Greek delegate at the Mudania conference at which the Greco-Turk armistice was signed.

AUTOMOBILE SHOW OFFICERS PREPARE FOR GREAT CROWD

All Attendance Records for Single Day Expected to Fall Before 10 O'Clock Tonight.

After a week during which all previous sales and attendance records were shattered, the third annual Southern Automobile show, which, according to authorities of international prominence is the most beautiful held in America this year, will come to a whirlwind finish tonight at 10 o'clock at the Auditorium.

Realizing that only two more days were to pass before the end, thousands visited the show Friday during the afternoon and evening, and salesmen were busier than ever demonstrating their cars to those who had waited until the eleventh hour to make their final decision.

Officials were confident Friday evening that this last day will bring the largest crowd of any one day, and all exhibits will be in place until the last minute in order that the visitors may see all the displays.

Music Is Success.
The rendition of the new composition, "The Motordom Blues," Friday evening by the 20-piece orchestra directed by J. A. Scharf, was a decided hit of the show and arrangements for a second concert of the same nature have been made. Many visitors Friday were loud in their praise of the beautiful decorations, and Virgil Shepard, manager, was the recipient of many congratulations upon the grand success of the show and his artistic decorative ability.

Among those who paid high tribute to the executive committee of the show and its successful management were G. H. Hannan, president of the Oakland Motor company, of Pontiac, Mich.; H. H. Rice, president of the Cadillac Motor Car company, of Detroit, and C. W. Nash, president of the Nash Motor company, of Kenosha, Wisconsin.

Mr. Hannan will be in Atlanta for a few days, as will also Mr. Nash. Mr. Rice left the city Friday morning for Cincinnati. While in Atlanta Mr. Nash will be taken on a bird shooting trip by John K. Otley, president of the Fourth National Bank and R. H. Martin, president of the Martin-Nash Motor company, local distributor of Nash cars in the southeast.

Business Is Good.

B. F. Ulmer, president of the Atlanta branch for the Buick Motor company, and member of the executive committee of the show, states that he is delighted with the show and declares that business has been very good.

HUGH M. WILLET SERIOUSLY HURT

Well-Known Insurance Man, Struck by Peach-tree Car, Rushed to Piedmont Sanitarium.

Hugh M. Willet, widely known Atlanta insurance man, was struck and seriously injured by street car at 7 o'clock Friday night, as he was crossing Peachtree street, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets. Unconscious and bleeding badly, he was taken to the Piedmont sanitarium. After minor lacerations were dressed he was taken in the X-ray room. Late at night it was announced that he was out of danger.

Witnesses, the police say, state that Mr. Willet was blinded by the lights of a passing automobile, and becoming confused, stepped in the path of a Peachtree street car.

Mr. Willet is one of the best known insurance men in the south. He is a member of the firm of Bagley & Willet, with offices in the Fourth National bank building.

Bodily Heat Saves Movie House Owners Many of Tons of Coal

Boston, February 23.—Exciting plays and motion pictures cause the temperature of audiences to rise and result in the throwing off of bodily heat that judicious theater owners utilize as a substitute for fuel, according to Professor Edward F. Miller, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who has made tests on Boston audiences. Some theater owners lower the heat supply as acts approach their climax. Fat persons, according to Professor Miller, give out more heat than thin ones as well as greater moisture, which also is beneficial since the average theater atmosphere is unusually dry.

ALIEN PROPERTY MEASURE PASSES SENATE FRIDAY

Big Majority Given Bill Authorizing Return of Property Taken From Former Enemy Aliens.

Washington, February 23.—The administration bill directing the return of as much as $10,000 of each estate of former enemy aliens held by the alien property custodian, was passed today by the house. It now goes to the senate.

The vote was 300 to 11 and came after the house had rejected amendments proposing restoration of all of the property taken from the property of Austrian nationals and the declaration of policy by congress that all of the property would be restored ultimately.

Amendment Rejected.
Renewing before the final vote his effort to provide for the restoration of all of the property held by the custodian, Representative Rayburn, democrat, Texas, moved to recommit the bill with instructions to the interstate commerce committee to add an amendment that would have that effect, but his motion was voted down, 181 to 124.

Opposing the amendment by Representative Rayburn.

The two special extra prizes recently announced in the Help-Yourself club campaign consist of a five-passenger Anderson six touring car valued at $1,205 delivered in Atlanta, and a beautiful five-passenger Gardner touring car valued at $1,075, delivered here. Both are of standard make and finish and would be a source of pride and pleasure to the most discriminating person in the entire south.

The same judges will have supervision over awarding of all the prizes, both original and extra. These judges are five officials of as many big Atlanta department stores. They are: J. P. HARDING URGES AGREEMENT SOON ON RURAL CREDITS

Asks Republican Leaders to "Effect Compromise." Believe Bill Will Pass at This Session.

PRESIDENT SEEKING TO FULFILL PROGRAM

Lenroot-Anderson Bill Included—Chief Executive Silent on Relative Merits of Two Farm Measures.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, February 23.—President Harding has undertaken to straighten out the farm credits legislative program which has caused a bitter fight among republican leaders in the house and a difference of opinion in his cabinet.

The controversy in congress has centered largely around the Lenroot-Anderson bill, provisions of which have been assailed by Secretary Mellon as "dangerous" and "unworkable," but which received the public endorsement of late Secretaries Wallace and Hoover.

A white house spokesman, in making known that Mr. Harding had urged republican house managers to effect a compromise, said the Lenroot-Anderson measure was included in the administration's program. At the same time Chairman McFadden, of the house banking committee, stated that the principal provisions of the original Lenroot-Anderson bill should be incorporated in the composite credit legislation which his committee is drafting.

See Passage of Bill.

The president, it was stated officially, was seeking to fulfill the administration program on rural credits, and felt confident that legislation providing effective relief for the farmer would be passed.

ward ancient saws, its conductor feels himself forced to refer to that time-tested bit of wisdom that has to do with people being helped that help themselves.

The natural outcome of reviving to memory this latest adage is to ask: "Are you helping yourself?" The Help-Yourself club, the name of which pretty aptly carries out the above-mentioned self-service idea, is giving away absolutely free to winners a grand total of 42 prizes, 18 of them sumptuous automobiles and 24 big cash prizes.

The latest of the awards—two special extra automobile prizes—were announced several days ago, and competition for them was so arranged that new club members have exactly the same chance to win as do regularly-qualified campaigners.

Separate Campaign Waged.
In other words, while competition for the original list of prizes goes right ahead in uninterrupted fashion, a separate campaign is being waged for the two special awards. This latter campaign is based solely upon amounts of money club members turn in on subscriptions from February 17 to Saturday, March 10, votes not in any way counting in the awarding of the two special prize cars.

All of which means that any advantage in this special prize campaign—if any advantage exists—is entirely in favor of men and women who join the club to represent towns and communities hitherto without representation in the club membership list.

These towns and sections in the "virgin territory" list are dotted all over the south.

Immense Girder For Viaduct Here After Long Trip

Circuitous Route Is Taken in Order to Avoid Low Bridges.

A giant steel girder, weighing approximately 25 tons, which is to form the base of one section in the new Spring street viaduct, reached Atlanta Friday morning from Roanoke, Va. Owing to its voluminous size two freight cars were required in conveying the girder to Atlanta, it was stated by engineers engaged in work on the project. The height of the girder, while resting on the freight cars, reached 17 1/2 feet from the rails, which necessitated a carefully selected route of transportation in order to obviate its passing through a number of tunnels and low bridges between Roanoke and Atlanta.

In all the girder was routed several hundred miles out of the direct route between the point of shipment and Atlanta, it was stated. The length of the girder measured 90 feet, taking up all space on two flat freight cars.

Engineers engaged in work on the viaduct stated that when the span in which the girder is to be used is completed the estimated weight would approximate 200 tons. This includes the steel cross-pieces, concrete floor and bannisters.

The largest girder to be used in the viaduct will not reach the city for several weeks, it was stated. This mass of steel will measure 130 feet and weigh 58 tons, requiring four freight cars to transport it here from the Virginia Bridge and Iron company, contractors for the steel work to be used in the viaduct.

RAIL PRESIDENTS TO CONTEST ORDER ON MILEAGE BOOKS

Claim I. C. C. Ruling "Discriminatory and Unfair to Large Majority of Traveling Public."

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, February 23.—The eastern railway presidents' conference today voted to contest the recent order of the interstate commerce commission providing for the sale of interchangeable mileage books at a reduction of 20 per cent from the prevailing rate of fare.

The commission's order was promulgated to be effective March 15. The conference issued a statement declaring that the order was regarded as "grossly discriminatory and unfair to the large majority of the traveling public who will continue to pay the standard rate of fare."

"In addition to this consideration," the statement continues, "it is estimated that the proposed order would cost the railroads not less than $90,000,000 a year and it is felt the railroads are in no condition to sustain any such reduction."

Garren, struck in vital parts of the body by two bullets, fell dead in his tracks. Statements made by Isbell and Smith before a justice of the peace placed blame for the shooting on Tipton.

SHIPPING BILL HANGING TO LIFE BY SINGLE THREAD

Motion Pending to Consider Measure Still Awaits Action of Filibuster-Worn Senate.

END MAY BE DELAYED UNTIL NEXT WEEK

Jones, Sponsor of Bill, Hopeful Despite Gloom Which Wraps Other Administration Leaders.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, February 23.—The administration shipping bill tonight had passed into the state of coma that precedes death. Worn by the filibuster and attacks of its enemies in the senate, the legislation for which President Harding called congress in special session and which the executive has urged with all the force at his command hung to life by a single thread—the motion pending in the senate to take it up for consideration.

Most of the measure's friends gave up the fight during the day, indicating their despair of doing more to save it by abandonment of the night sessions into which they had forced the senate for four successive nights. Senator Jones, republican, Washington, who as chairman of the commerce committee, has fathered the bill in the senate, refused for the first time to say that he was hopeful although declaring that he would fight on.

See End Soon.

The end may come tomorrow or it may be delayed until next week, possibly Monday, and will be brought about either by a motion to send the measure back to the committee or to displace it with another piece of legislation. Some suggestions were heard about the senate that it might be impending with its death to occur coincident with the adjournment of congress.

Indications of the end developed rapidly today in the senate although definitely forecast yesterday. Senator Curtis, of Kansas, the assistant republican leader, early in the day went to the white house and informed the president that the cause in behalf of the bill was hopeless. The president was understood merely to have asked that every possible effort be made in behalf of the legislation.

Agreed to Adjourn.

Returning to the capital just before the senate met, Senator Curtis confessed that he was not hopeful.

Appeal for Strict Constitutional Government Is Made at Annual Meeting by Martin W. Littleton.

Following election of James A. Branch as president, Martin W. Littleton, of New York, delivered a ringing appeal for strict constitutional government before the 1923 meeting of the Atlanta Bar association in the Ansley roof garden Friday night.

The movement to create an additional judgeship in Fulton superior court did not develop, as had been expected in some quarters, and the subject was not even mentioned. All officers were elected without opposition. They are: Mr. Branch, president; Robert V. Troutman and William A. Fuller, vice presidents, and E. Warren Moise, secretary-treasurer. Edgar E. Pomeroy, 1922 president, acted as toastmaster. Former Governor Nathan Phillips presided.

Washington Officials Assert That Teutons Are About to Despair of Outside Moral Help.

HUGHES IS WATCHING MOVEMENTS IN EUROPE

French Dissolve Municipal Council at Bochum; Arrest Oberburgmaster and Members of Council.

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, February 23.—(By Constitution Bureau Wire.)—There was a tendency among government officials and observers today to interpret current dispatches from Europe as meaning Germany is weakening in her policy of resistance to the French with respect to the occupation of the Ruhr, and may be expected at an early date to make overtures to Paris for a settlement of the reparations question.

The belief prevails among officials, it was learned, that no outside power is inclined to intervene or make a tender of mediation in the present Franco-German deadlock, which is now approaching its seventh week.

The statement was made that once Germany realizes she can hope for no support from outside powers negotiations will be undertaken with the French, in an effort to find some basis for a reparations agreement that she can carry out, on the one hand, and that will be satisfactory to the French, on the other.

Despair of Help.
Officials believe that Germany did not entertain the idea at first that the threatened occupation would be carried out in its present form and if it was, Germany was convinced that she would receive the moral support of the allied powers and Russia. Otherwise, she would have thrown up her hands in the beginning, it is declared.

To all outward appearances, officials here say that Germany's repeated protests since the French invasion began have gained her nothing, and it is asserted that German officials are about to despair of any more from the outside which will make a settlement with France easier or terminate the military occupation of the Ruhr any earlier.

It is also known in Washington that there are certain elements in Germany which are pressing the Cuno government hard for some relief from conditions in the Ruhr, said to be getting more and more intolerable.

Situation Critical.

According to Berlin dispatches received during the last week, many specialist leaders are demanding a reopening of the negotiations with the French, and at the earliest possible moment. In addition to this current dispatches indicate that other German leaders are becoming apprehensive of a separate movement in the Ruhr, which might conceivably take the Ruhr entirely out of the hands of Berlin. It is pointed out that Prussians have been given cause for considerable alarm by a similar movement in Bavaria gaining much headway.

It is understood in Washington that Secretary of State Hughes remains in doubt regarding his proposed trip to Chile for the Pan-American conference, because he anticipated highly important developments in Europe in the next few weeks and that if these developments materialize he feels that he should be at his post in order to deal with them more effectively.

Hughes May Remain.
The state department has stated officially that Mr. Hughes still is uncertain regarding his South American tour, and it was extremely doubtful whether he would leave the capital. Observers have been quick to seize upon this announcement as significant of the somewhat vague but persistent reports which continue to come from Berlin and Paris that some move in the direction of a Franco-German settlement is about to be made. If it eventuates, state department officials do not believe the move will be engineered by the British, asserting at the same time that it will not be made by the American government. By the process of elimination, this would seem to indicate that the move will come through some German quarter.

FRENCH DISOLVE BOCHUM COUNCIL

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Berlin, February 23.—The French occupying force today dissolved the meeting of the municipal council of Bochum and arrested the oberbürgermeister and 22 members of the council on the ground that they had refused to carry out French orders regarding deliveries. Ten tanks were stationed outside the town hall while the arrests were being made.

GUARD PUBLIC UTILITIES

Essen, February 23.—(By The Associated Press).—Extra precautions to guard public utilities throughout the Ruhr have been taken by the Franco-Belgian authorities because of an order issued by General Wilhelm Greiner, German minister of transportation, to the striking railroad workers, to cut off gas and water and electric lights where possible.

According to information in the hands of the French intelligence staff, the strikers have been given a pre-emptory order to perpetrate sabotage immediately at various points so as to hinder in every conceivable way the forces of occupation. The German customs houses in the Ruhr were taken over today, the German officials being replaced by French customs officials. Gradually all the German customs employees in the occupied area are to be let out and in a few days the French and Belgians will be in complete control. No serious incidents arose over today's procedure. At Spier, however, the German customs chief refused to vacate his office. He was arrested and taken to the German prison. The German authorities refused to accept the prisoner, whereupon the prison director himself was arrested by the French soldiers and locked in his own jail with the customs chief.

Telephone Strike Spreads.
The telephone and telegraph strike in the Ruhr is spreading to the Rhineland. At Mayence today the postal workers refused to serve the French. Consequently the postoffice was occupied by French troops. Almost immediately, the mail, telephone and telegraph employees quit work and the German population is without wire communication to outside points. Strikes still are in progress at Essen, Duisburg and other principal points in the occupied region. Strike funds sent to the Ruhr by Berlin continue to pour into the district. While some of the funds are being distributed among the strikers, the French daily are making inroads into the cash. At Duisburg today they seized 12,000,000 marks which the Germans had planned to distribute among the railway strikers. Several shooting affrays were reported in various parts of the Ruhr today at Oberhausen there was trouble between the security police and French gendarmes who were disarming them. One of the police was killed and another wounded. In Witten, a German workman who was attempting to attack a soldier was shot and killed.

Red Color in Solar Salt and Brine.
A note in Science calls attention to a possible cause of the red color in solar salt and brine. Recent investigations tend to indicate that the color is due to micro-organisms that thrive in a media containing not less than 15 per cent of salt by weight, and one in which the most favorable temperature is between 50 and 60 degrees Centigrade.

CHEESE FACTORY MAY BE FORMED IN FLOYD COUNTY

Rome, Ga., February 23.—(Special.)—Nearly 50 farmers of the community gathered at the Foster academy, in Foster's mill district of Floyd county, last night to hear discussed the establishment in that community of a cheese factory as proposed by some of the citizens there. Charles Kennedy presided and the principal speaker was Wyatt Foster, of Rome. Other speakers in favor were Secretary Bowers, of the Floyd county arm bureau; Charles Kennedy, H. A. Gray, A. G. Thomas, Messrs. Cooper and Keith and a number of other farmers present. The establishment of the factory appeared to meet with unanimous approval, and it was shown that there were 90 dairy cattle represented at the meeting, and a survey will be made to learn how many there are in the community. A committee composed of Z. W. Salmon, G. A. Gray and T. J. Spann was appointed to make this survey and report to a future meeting. It was also made known that Rome banks are ready to assist in financing the proposition.

EDUCATION BOARD IN ROME RESIGNS; ISSUE TO VOTERS

Rome, Ga., February 23.—(Special.)—The resignations of the five members of the Rome board of education were accepted by the city commission last night, to take effect when their successors are elected and qualified. The secretary of the commission was instructed to open books for registration of voters at once for an election to be held March 20, to choose successors to the members of the present board until the expiration of their terms on the first Monday in April and until their successors are elected and qualified. The action on this was unanimous.

It is generally understood that the purpose behind the resignations is to afford voters of the city an opportunity to express their wishes in the matter of permitting the board of education to control its own financial affairs, and to divorce the board of education entirely from control of the commission. This it is said will be the issue in the coming election.

It is probable that the five members of the present board will be candidates for re-election, basing their candidacy entirely on complete separation of the board and the city commission, in the control of school funds, and in levying the tax necessary to obtain them.

Nello Hammock in Grave Condition After Being Hit by Auto.

Nello Hammock, 14, was seriously injured Thursday afternoon at the south end of the viaduct on Peters street when he was struck by the automobile in which Dr. Charles P. Ward, 916 East North avenue, was hastening in answer to an emergency call.

Dr. Ward picked up the boy and rushed him to Grady hospital where it was found that he was suffering from a fractured skull and a crushed leg. The physician reported the occurrence to the police and stated that the youngster had stepped suddenly from the back of a standing truck directly in front of his automobile, making it impossible to avoid a collision. Witnesses supported the doctor's statement and no case was made against him.

Savannah Included in Budget Requested
For Hospital Facilities

Washington, February 23.—Secretary Mellon asked congress today for an appropriation of $8,786,500 for the construction and repair of marine hospitals and quarantine stations. Included in the estimates were proposals for new hospitals at New Orleans, San Francisco, Seattle and at a point contiguous to Galveston and Port Arthur, Texas.

Mr. Mellon also recommended large appropriations for existing marine hospitals, in order to increase their capacity, replace temporary structures and make large repairs. Other estimates for repairs and additions included: Carroll, La., $25,000; Key West, Fla., $60,000; Louisville, Ky., $65,000; Memphis, Term, $15,000; Mobile, Ala., $20,000; and Savannah, Ga., $50,000. Appropriations for quarantine stations included Mobile, Ala., $25,000.

Merchant Fires

Leaving Store

Target Not Hit by Fellow
Officer Hurt in Dash to Rescue.

The crash of pistol fire awakened the neighborhood of 141 Rothwell street early this morning when Sidney Zimmerman, proprietor of the store at that number, fired a full round of five bullets at the body of Patrolman J. R. Pittman as he emerged from the store where he had unsuccessfully sought a burglar.

None of the bullets took effect, but the sound of firing attracted Patrolman Durden from a neighboring beat in such haste that he fell from the police automobile and sprained his ankle and otherwise hurt his leg in his dash to the rescue of his imperiled fellow officer. Patrolman Pittman, with the assistance of Patrolman E. I. Hilderbrand, succeeded in convincing Zimmerman that their entrance into the store was in quest of a looter and not of loot. A search by the two assisted by Brown and Caldwell failed to disclose the malefactor. The amount lost in the burglary was not determined. The lock on the front door had been broken to effect an entrance.

Michigan Fails To Indorse Ford
For Presidency

State Democratic Convention
Compromises With Resolution Lauding Magnate.

Detroit, February 23.—Henry Ford's embryonic presidential boom didn't exactly flatter, but the state democratic convention has again decided that the time "isn't quite ripe" to step on the gas, and compromised with a resolution lauding Ford as a great and good citizen.

Ford has remained strictly silent during all the rumors and gossip concerning his chances to make the white house on high in 1923, and failed to appear at the head of Wayne county's delegation to the convention in spite of the fact that he had been elected to the distinction, but for awhile Ford issue overshadowed all else and a possible party split was feared by state leaders because of the movement to publicly endorse the multi-millionaire automobile manufacturer as the next democratic standard bearer. Such a split would have been most untoward because the party has been quite content of its future since electing Woodbridge N. Ferris to the United States senate last November. Once before Ford's name came up before the Michigan democratic convention in the last previous state convention it was thought that he might be endorsed without waiting for the senatorial election, but it was finally decided that the immediate job was to elect Ferris and not to enter into national politics at that time.

The decision to let the endorsement ride was made after various secret caucuses preceding and exterior to the convention here. Ford's opponents and even some of his strong supporters, it is understood, again insisted that the time was not "opportune" for his endorsement, and that this should be left for the people to decide at the presidential primaries. Thus it was that the resolutions committee voted down a proposal to go on record for Ford. He entered a resolution recognizing "the tremendous influence of Henry Ford, a citizen of our state, for good in the industrial, economic and political affairs of the nation and of all mankind."

BRIDGE IN ROME
CLOSED BY CITY;
CLAIM DANGEROUS

Rome, Ga., February 23.—(Special.)—The bridge at Second avenue across the Oostanaula was closed today by City Manager Sam King, and will, he announced, remain closed because of its extremely dangerous condition. The matter had been referred by the city commission to the city manager with power to act. Before closing the bridge he said that he inspected it thoroughly, in company with Bridge Superintendent Avery, of the Southern railway, and both agreed that to allow the bridge to remain open to traffic means risking lives and property.

At the meeting of the city commission held last night the city manager was instructed to confer with the county board of roads and revenue in regard to the ownership of the bridge, about which there has been doubt.

CAPTAIN PATILLO
DIES NEAR ROME

Rome, Ga., February 23.—(Special.)—Captain Robert M. Patillo, a widely-known and much-esteemed farmer, who has resided in this county for nearly 20 years, died at his home on what is known as the Porter farm, about three and a half miles from Rome, on the Hobbs road at a late hour yesterday afternoon. The body was sent to Madison, his former home, this morning for interment. Captain Patillo was a member of the Baptist church and it is expected that the Rev. J. E. Sammons, pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, will officiate at the funeral services. Captain Patillo was 79 years of age and had been married to his wife, who survives him, 53 years. The couple resided in Cartersville for 35 years before coming to Rome.

ferred with Senator Jones and with other republican leaders. Then, in an executive session, the republican leaders proposed a unanimous consent agreement that the senate adjourn at 6 p. m. until 11 a. m. tomorrow, after which bills on the calendar would be considered for two hours. The opponents of the ship bill entered no objection, accepting the proposal as an indication of dissolution and immediately began preparing to press further the advantage gained. Conferences continued throughout the day among the ship bill's opponents, but when the senate adjourned the plan of action had not been agreed upon except that a test vote very probably would come tomorrow. There were some who urged reconciliation, others advocated displacement of the measure in favor of other legislation, and a third group wanted an arrangement whereby the measure would continue as the unfinished business of the senate until adjournment.

Some suggestions were heard that the administration would withdraw the bill, but Senator Jones showed no such indications nor was any such course conceded as a probability at the white house. The only comment that came directly from the white house during the day was a declaration by a spokesman for the president that as to the filibuster the executive would let the country pass judgment. Pending final disposition of the bill, its opponents continued the filibuster and refused to allow any other business to be transacted, not even the reception of reports from committees. Senator Frelinghuysen, republican, New Jersey, after the senate convened, spoke in behalf of the legislation and then the filibusters resumed their campaign of talk. Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, made a further attack on the railroads, Senator Stanley, democrat, Kentucky, discussed phases of the prohibition question and Senator Ladd, republican, North Dakota, spoke for 3 1/2 hours on financial matters.

TWO KATOS IN JAPAN VIE FOR LEADERSHIP

Factions Differ on Question of Mailed-Fist or Good-Will Policy.

Tokio, February 23.—The kato and their clans are at each other's throats, politically speaking, in Japan. The fight that is on in Tokyo is to determine whether Japan's future policy shall be of the mailed fist sort that attempted to force the 21 demands upon China, and to grab Siberia by military strength—or whether it shall be of the peace and good-will policy, inaugurated at the Washington disarmament conference and demonstrated in Japan's voluntary evacuation of Siberia and her return of Shantung to China.

The first policy discredited Japan in the eyes of the world. The second policy has done much to restore friendship and understanding between Japan and the other great powers. The first policy was, apparently, leading certainly to inevitable war. The second, it seems, promises peace in the far east.

The two men who lead these two policies—each named Kato—and who are fighting to see which policy shall win are first, Viscount Taka Kato, former foreign minister, author of the "Twenty-one Demands," and now leader of the opposition to the present cabinet.

The second is Admiral Baron Tomomura Kato, the present premier and minister of the navy, Japan's chief delegate at the Washington conference—the creator of Japan's navy and designer and executor of Japan's new foreign policy.

Cabinet May Fall.

The Kato cabinet may fall—but the new Kato policies will win and the old parties of the "opposition" will die, according to all present indications.

Bitter criticism of the Kato cabinet, of former Minister Uchida, and of what the opposition calls Japan's "weak policy" in China is heard in the diet sessions almost every day. Viscount Kato whose "twenty-one demands" represent the name of a "strong policy" in China, being the chief complainant.

Japan's withdrawal from Shantung and her relinquishment of Japanese post offices in China are the two examples of "weakness" harped upon most by the opposition leaders—although this conduct is regarded as splendid by the rest of the world and is considered an earnest attempt at abandonment of the old washbuckling attitude of Japan on the Asiatic continent.

Underwood Closes Service as Leader Of Minority Party

Washington, February 23.—Senator Underwood, of Alabama, has closed his service as democratic floor leader of the senate. Accompanied by Mrs. Underwood, he has left here on a four months' European tour, following the completion of all the regular appropriations bills of the session and assurance from President Harding that there would be no early call, at least, for an extra session of the new congress.

The senate minority leadership today virtually fell upon Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, who is slated to be chosen in the next congress as the successor of Senator Underwood, who announced last November that he would retire from the leadership with the end of the closing congress. Senator Underwood's health has been somewhat impaired by throat trouble and his physician had advised a long rest to restore his speaking powers.

Mr. Underwood's friends also say that he has long been dissatisfied with the post of democratic leader, because of dissensions and they say, conditions, prevalent both on the republican and democratic sides, under which the rank and file do not follow their leaders as formerly.

Senator and Mrs. Underwood will tour the Mediterranean countries, including Egypt, and probably visit the excavation of King Tutankhamen's tomb. Later they will tour the Riviera, visiting France, Italy, Spain and Holland. They will return here in June.

LONDON STIRRED AS LADY GREVILLE PICKS STAGE LIFE

London, February 23.—Society here was stirred today by the announcement that Lady Mercy Greville, 19-year-old daughter of the Countess of Warwick, is shortly to go on the stage.

The countess, in an interview with the Evening Press, says she is delighted at her daughter's choice of a career.

The Countess of Warwick, who has consented that her daughter go on the stage, is a leader in British society and a member of the old aristocracy, to which she belongs both by birth and marriage. She has long been known as a devotee of outdoor sports, being an expert horsewoman and an enthusiastic follower of the hunting pack. She also has attracted wide attention by her radical views, and is a member of the British socialist party and the independent labor party.

Captain Injured.

Tampa, Fla., February 23.—Tom Walker, captain and forward of the Hillsborough High school basketball team, may be out of the line-up for the balance of the season as a result of injuring his ankle during practice yesterday. Physicians said a bone may be broken, although this could not be determined definitely last night because of immediate dilation.

Coco of Opinion 12 of Veniremen Klan Members

Declares, However, He Will Not Object to Representation on Mer Rouge Jury.

New Orleans, La., February 23.—(By The Associated Press).—Attorney General A. V. Coco will not object to klan members serving on the Morehouse parish grand jury which is to consider the evidence taken at the recent open hearing into hooded mob outrages, but he expects the klan members to disregard their klan affiliations and return indictments against persons he will name at the grand jury hearing early in March.

The attorney general made his position clear today in a statement which followed a lengthy conference with members of his staff and conference with leading residents of Morehouse parish during his visit there last week.

"The best information obtainable is that five of the 20 names selected in the jury panel are positively members of the Ku Klux Klan, while it is generally believed that seven others are members," Mr. Coco said. "Of course, it was impossible under the law to exclude citizens by reason of their affiliation with the klan or opposition to the order and the jury commission pursued the only course open to them, that is, selecting the jurors with reference purely to their personal qualifications."

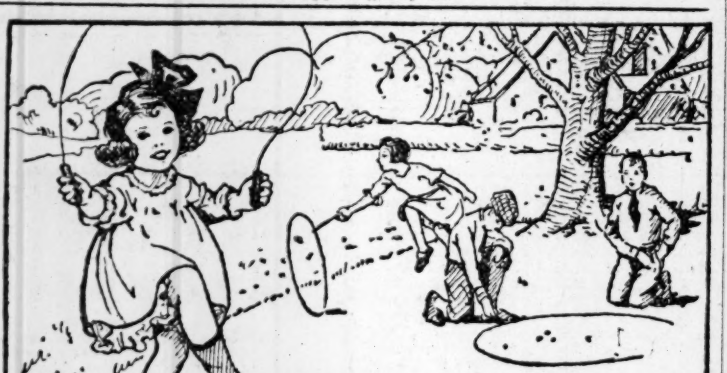

Praises Men.

The attorney general referred to the good social standing of the men selected and declared that their long residence in the parish, their property interests, and reputations of being law-abiding citizens, convinced him that they would "do their duty irrespective of klan affiliations or influence."

Mr. Coco declared conditions in Morehouse parish had greatly improved since the close of the open hearing into the deaths of Watt Daniel and Thomas F. Richard, and other alleged klan outrages, six weeks ago. "I will personally place the five volumes of evidence taken at the Bastrop open hearing before the grand jury when it is selected from the 20 names on March 5, or shortly thereafter, and will introduce additional evidence to bolster up the testimony already taken," he said.

"The grand jury, as usual, will be instructed to return indictments even on a 'presumption of guilt,' and I believe the evidence against those whom we will request indictments is so overwhelming that the jury will not ignore it, however strong their klan affiliations are."

"We are putting the matter squarely up to the citizens of the parish and confidently expect that indictments will be returned. They must decide whether their section of the state will recognize the constituted authority or permit a return of barbarism and chaos, which I do not believe the men selected would be guilty of."

is the ideal drink for growing children

Not only does its delicious flavor and aroma appeal to the palate but it supplies the body with a considerable amount of pure, wholesome and nutritious food.

Children, owing to their almost ceaseless activity, frequently require a large amount of nourishment as adults, and good cocoa is a valuable aid in the carefully arranged diet. But its quality must be good and no cocoa can quite so well meet the requirements of dietitian, physician, nurse or housekeeper as "BAKER'S"

Fashion Holds Up Before Our Eyes Alluring Conceptions of New Novelty Jewelry

SPRING costumes aren't complete without jewelry—so decrees Fashion, and then she proceeds to give us the most alluring creations in jewelry that ever one did see! You'll find the newest jewelry conceits at High's—and more often than not you'll find them specially priced.

Paisley colorings have crept into even the necklaces. Here are strands of beads in light and dark Paisley colorings with tasseled ends—and they're priced but 59c.

These pretty little cuff pins with the engraved designs are of 10-kt. solid gold and they're priced but $1 the pair.

One needs a pencil always in one's purse and so these little sterling pencils are just the thing. They have ring tops, too, so they may be worn on ribbon sash, and are priced only 29c.

Midget size fountain pens with gold points that write beautifully, are complete with silk sash, and are priced only $1.

Pretty rings for little fingers are these of sterling silver set with black, onyx-like setting, plain or with rhinestone. There are several designs at 59c.

Peggy sport chains of colored metallic beads provide a bright spot of coloring for a dark costume. They're 59c.

And now women are wearing lovely plaques on ribbon or silk cord sash. These plaques are in many shapes, are of black or colored composition set with stones or of carved white bone. They're $1.

Petticoat Prediction!

IF YOU are looking for a new silk Jersey or radium silk petticoat to wear under your spring dress or suit, we'll wager you will find exactly what you want in quality, in style, in color, in our splendid showing of

Petticoats at $4.95 to $12.50

They Look Like Dollars More! Mesh Bags—Sale, $2.95

WHITING & DAVIS mesh bags, and Whiting & Davis have no peer in the making of mesh bags. How fortunate for you and for us that we managed to get these bags at special prices. They're made of fine, lace-like ring mesh with square or dainty cathedral frames. Ring chain or strap handles. They're wonders at $2.95.

For Women Who Love Novelty Earrings—Sale—49c, 98c

YOU'LL find just one pretty novelty after another on this table of earrings—some of Fashion's newest are here! Fact is, there are earrings that were made to sell up to $2 in this assortment. We got a manufacturer's overage of some of his best sellers—and we got them for a song, as you can see.

—There are drops, balls, pendants, tassels, loops and hoops. In pearl, jet, jade, amber, amethyst, topaz, carnelian, coral, lapis, red, green —ever so many pretty colors and color combinations to choose from. And there seems to be no end to the styles.

Indestructible Pearl Beads Lovely Ones—A Sale!

FROM a short distance they look as much like real salt water pearls as one pea looks like another. Yes, they're really unusually fine pearl beads at an unusually little price. The manufacturer wiped them literally clean of profit when he sold them to us.

—18 to 27-inch strands with solid gold ring clasp, are here for $1.98
—26-inch strands with solid gold ring clasp, $2.98
—26-inch strands with 10-kt. white gold clasp set with small diamond $5.49
—24-in. strands with 14-kt. white gold clasp, $3.49
—24 to 27-inch strands with 14-kt. white gold clasp set with diamonds $9.98
—32 to 36-inch strands with 14-kt. white gold set with diamond $10.98

Surprisingly Pretty Is This New Neckwear at $1

WHAT sort of neckwear do you want? Something dainty for a dress? Something more substantial for a suit? Or something that will look nice upon a sweater? Whatever you want it for, you'll find the neckwear you want in this Sale.

—There are bertha collars, tab collars, round Buster Brown collars, square collars, vestees and Tuxedos. These are developed from net, tucked net, linen, linene, eyelet embroidery, crisp organdy and ratine. Some of these pieces of neckwear bear the names of the finest of neckwear manufacturers—Crowley and Bassel.

Dainty and Inexpensive Are These Fine, New Kid Gloves

JUST came into the store—and we don't expect to have them here long—they're altogether too good looking and too inexpensive. They're just exactly what fashionable women are wanting to wear with short-sleeved silk dresses and new spring suits.

Strap gloves of fine French kid with a stiff gauntlet cuff. Have pinked scalloped edge and are piped and stitched with contrasting color. Black and white, brown and tan and white with brown. $4.95
Twelve-button length gloves of undressed kid, soft and dainty. These have Paris point stitching on backs. In cream, mode and beige. $5.50
Sixteen-button length gloves of fine black kid. In gray, brown, tan, mode and black. $4.95

For the Prettiest Spring Hats Veiling at 59c the Yard

THERE are pretty French dot effects in all the wanted spring colors to harmonize with the new hats. Blue on white, mountain haze, taupe, gray, blue on gray, brown on tan, tan on brown, henna on navy, black, rose on gray and magpie. They're pretty enough to go with the prettiest of spring hats—and special at 59c yard.

If You're Looking for Style—
If You're Looking for Beauty—
If You're Looking for Inexpensiveness—

See These Pretty Spring

Dresses of Silk for $14.75

THE manufacturer who made these dresses knew a thing or two. He knew style, you'll have to admit that—style as it is interpreted this spring of 1923! And he knew materials—knew what materials to use to get the maximum good looks for the minimum price! And he knew the production end of the business. He knew his work so well, that he has almost worked magic in the production of these dresses!

—They're of the season's most wanted silks—gay prints, Paisley blouses with dark pleated satin skirts, rough knit crepe silks and dark Canton crepes. Straight line models, Baikan blouse models, long waisted models with loose panels, slipover models with drapery at the sides—so many models that you're absolutely sure of finding two or three to please you. Colors are Lanvin green, rose, gray, navy and bright combinations.

Women Like Richelieu Knit Spring Underwear

For Four Good Reasons

THESE reasons are (1) it fits properly; (2) it comes in the very styles they like; (3) it wears satisfactorily; (4) it is inexpensive. Plenty of Richelieu knit underwear at High's.

—Richelieu ribbed white and pink cotton vests with built-up shoulders or bodice tops. Regular and extra sizes. .35c —Richelieu ribbed white cotton vests with built-up shoulders. These are presented in regular and extra sizes. .19c —Richelieu ribbed white cotton union suits. Open and closed styles with built-up shoulders. Regulars and extras. .59c
—Richelieu ribbed pink and white open and closed union suits with built-up and bodice tops. Regulars and extras. .98c

EXTRA! EXTRA! 50 Capes At $5.95

WHO ever heard of such a price on capes! And who ever heard of such capes as these selling for anything like this price!

—They're of granite cloth and wool velour. Embroidered and edged with military braid. In copen, gray, brown, navy and tan. Just enough for fifty lucky women.

Today—Girls' Fashion Day On the Third Floor at High's

WHAT have the specialists in juvenile styles done for girls for spring? Come to High's Shop for girls, on the Third Floor, and you shall see—dresses, capes, hats—the very things that you'd gaze at through Fifth Avenue's shop windows if you were in New York right now!

Girls' Spring Capes, $4.98 to $14.98

—Whether she's two or whether she's sixteen, she's interested in fashions, and when she's interested in fashions, she's interested in capes this spring.

—High's has a collection of mighty pretty spring capes for girls. Of velours, polaire and tweed. In blue, red, tan, reindeer and mixed colors.

Silk Dresses for Girls Are $6.98

—Taffeta dresses and spring-like pongs for girls of 5 to 14 years. Mothers will approve of them, for behind their little prices lies real beauty.

—Made in youthful becoming styles, most of them straight-line. Trimmed with colored appliques and embroidery of contrasting color. The taffetas are in plaids.

Girls' Linen Dresses Are Special at $5.98

—Straight-line dresses of imported Irish linen, in plain tan, orange, blue and natural. These are made in collarless, straight-line styles, with pleats or tucks over shoulders. Some have unique belts. Show novelty hand-stitchery and applique designs. Sizes 6 to 14 years.

Dresses of Gingham at $2.98 Are Fine

—Lucette dresses; you mothers know how good they are. First-class materials and clever designing in every one of them. Some of chambray. Trimmed with plique, embroidered appliques, colored organdy frills, floss embroidery, etc. Some of them are belted. The sizes are 6 to 14 years.

New! Pantee Frocks Special at $1.25

—Of plain colored chambray and pretty checked gingham in all of the good colors. Hand-embroidered, smoked and applique into the sweetest little frocks for girls you ever saw. The pantees show just a trifle beneath the hem of the skirts. For youngsters of 2 to 6 years. Special, $1.25.

Her Hat's at High's! It's $1.98 to $4.98

—Tailored and sports styles pretty enough for Sunday best and practical enough for school wear. Pokes, wide-brim hats, rolling brim hats and other styles of Milan hemp and fancy straws. Trimmed with ribbon bows, rosettes and streamers. In all colors. For girls of 4 to 14 years.

Pocket a Saving of $1.05 on These Silk Teddies At $2.95

SPECIAL purchase enables us to clip $1.05 off the regular price of these dainty teddies of crepe de chine and radium silk in white and flesh. Look at them!—aren't they lovely with their yokes of filet lace, embroidered net medallions and lace shoulder straps? You never expected to find such teddies for $2.95!

Style and Quality in These New Leather Hand Bags Specially Priced $1.95

SMART hand bags of real leather—and there are ever so many styles from which to choose!

—There are bags of tooled leather, goat morocco, seal effects, walrus, kid finished and novelty leathers—some in Paisley effects.

—There are vanity boxes that are fitted with vanity accessories, swagger, pouch and novelty shapes which have good-sized mirrors and are lined with kid or silk.

Nomination of Mrs. Clay For Marietta Postoffice Sent to Senate Friday

Washington, February 23.—(By The Constitution Leased Wire.)—Mrs. Alexander S. Clay, of Marietta, Ga., widow of the late United States Senator Clay, was today nominated as postmistress at that point.

At the same time two other nominations for Georgia postoffices were sent to the senate for confirmation, William C. McBride being named as postmaster at Newnan, and Charles L. Adair for the government office at Comer. The appointments were recommended by J. L. Phillips, chairman of the republican state central committee of Georgia, who is in Washington on business.

Having been at one time the private secretary of the late Senator

Clay, Senator W. J. Harris, of Georgia, was active in having Mrs. Clay's appointment expedited by the department. He stated today that he would urge the senate to take up confirmation at the first opportunity.

Declamation Contest.

Rome, Ga., February 23.—(Special.)—The annual declamation contest at the Berry schools was held last night, conducted by David Reynolds, of the faculty, who had offered a prize of $10 for the best declamation on a historic or patriotic subject. The first prize was won by David Driggers, Jr., who declaimed "A Plea for Compromise," by Henry Clay. The second prize was won by Richard Foster, a senior, whose declamation was "Washington's Funeral Oration," by Major Henry Lee. The judges were John M. Graham, W. C. Nash and Miss Hansley, the latter a teacher in the Vann's Valley district of this county.

Here Are the Latest Pictures From the Tomb of Tutankhamen at Luxor, Egypt

Copyright, 1923, by London Daily Mail.

1.—The delicate process of packing the king's royal couch without injuring the superb gilding which covered it. This 3,000-year-old article of furniture upon which the monarch of millions of Egyptians reclined, is one of the most remarkable finds of the tomb.

2.—Sketch of the interior of the first opened chamber of Tutankhamen, drawn by Arthur E. P. B. Weigall, eminent Egyptologist, artist and now special correspondent of The Atlanta Constitution, at Luxor, Egypt. The sketch was made from memory after a brief visit. The chamber, as seen from the entrance, is cut out of the rock, but the wall on the right is a built partition covered with pink plaster. In it is the sealed doorway which entered the tomb soon after burial. On either side of the door are black wood statues of the king, the wig, skirts and sandals covered with gold leaf, as are also the two wooden couches, the one on the right with lion heads; that on the left with hippopotami heads.

3.—Riches of Pharaoh Tutankhamen. Chariot wheels, gold and silver thrones, gilded couches and other precious relics found in the tomb of King Tutankhamen in the Valley of the Kings. Above the Hathor cow image is shown a floral bouquet found in the tomb of the king after thirty centuries.

4.—The famous Hathor cow, which formed one of the side supports of the king's royal couch, being brought up from Tutankhamen's sepulchre by Howard Carter (right) and one of his assistants.

5.—How the precious tomb relics are packed after being brought from the tomb. Large boxes are built and the bottoms are covered with wads of cotton.

he said, "to balance authority with liberty and the pursuit of happiness without liberty and all of them have failed. The pure democracy seeks to achieve liberty without authority and every experiment since the days of ancient Athens has failed."

"The ideal of all the governments of the ancient and modern world is found in the government set up by the constitution of the United States in which a delicate system of checks and balances preserves authority without sacrificing liberty and preserves liberty without sacrificing authority."

In terms that brought his hearers in cheers and laughter to their feet, Mr. Middleton ridiculed radical movements that aim to break down the effectiveness of the constitution as a preserver of the inalienable rights of man.

"Preservation of the rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness which includes 'property,' is the only proper purpose of government," Mr. Middleton declared. "Whether by rule of man or monarch these rights are denied, government has failed."

Mr. Middleton advised his hearers not to confound the meanings of "liberty" and "democracy," for the two are not synonymous, he said. The majority can be as unbearable a despot as the monarch, if the exercise of its sovereignty is not regulated to insure free exercise of the individual's right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Warns Lawyers.

The speaker warned the lawyers against a time when the senate and the house of representatives should become filled with "delegates" rather than representatives.

"I want men to go to the legislative halls who will represent their people as their own intellects direct them as best, and not to respond to each ill-considered change of popular whim," he said. "We don't want our government to become all sail and no ballast."

Mr. Middleton also registered a decided protest against movements whose chief promise is to simplify government. "Absolute monarchy is the simplest form of government," he said. "To maintain the equipoise of authority and liberty, it is necessary that the machinery of government be complicated with checks and balances."

Six new attorneys were elected to membership in the bar association at the Friday meeting. They were W. H. Hamilton, Roy L. Mitchell, E. Snay, G. Gambrell, E. E. Thornton and T. J. Johnston.

Secretary Mose announced that the association had succeeded in having a portrait of Judge Alexander Campbell King, judge of the United States circuit court, which the association will hang in the court room of the federal building.

(At the Lyric)

Master Gabriel, midwest comedian, headlines a corking good vaudeville program at the Lyric. Assisted by an able supporting company this talented entertainer presents a clever little comedy called "Captain Kiddo".

Four other Keith big time acts, including Marie Russell and Sambo in a blackface song skit, "At the Cabin Door"; Betty Washington and her violin; Will and Gladys Ahearn, in a rovelly rope-spinning surprise, and the Renard Brothers in a daring acrobatic offering, "Up in the Clouds".

Louis Love and company in "A Romance of Songland" a tuneful one-act operetta, continues to please audiences at Loew's Grand theater. Lawrence and Beerman, navigators of nonsense, furnish the largest portion of laughs on the program, and Snyder's animals, a troupe of six trained goats, exhibit remarkable intelligence and are entertaining to the children as well as the older folks.

Other good numbers are furnished by Fox and Allyn in an original laugh skit, "To Let," and Helen Miller, in excellent xylophone selections. Four shows will be given today, starting at 2:00, 4:00, 7:00 and 9:00 P. M.

The feature of the screen bill is Alice Calhoun in "A Girl's Desire."

CANDLER IS HEAD OF EMORY ALUMNI

Value of University to Atlanta Is Stressed in Speeches by Many Graduates Friday.

BY HERMAN D. HANCOCK.

Judge John S. Candler was made president of the Emory University Alumni association, which was formed as the culmination of the "homecoming banquet," held Wednesday night at the club rooms of the chamber of commerce. The formation of the association was caused by a growing feeling that the young university should take immediate steps to bind the alumni to the institution. A meeting of a petitioning nucleus was held last June and a petition for a charter was filed in the Georgia supreme court. The new organization is incorporated under the provisions of the charter which has been granted.

More than 300 students and alumni attended the banquet, and short speeches were made by prominent business and professional graduates of the university. Paul E. Bryan, of Emory university and Oxford, England, acted as toastmaster. Dr. Stewart Roberts spoke on the subject "Why We Need an Emory University Alumni Association." Thomas W. Connolly spoke on "The Modern Alumni Association." Mr. Connolly has recently been studying the needs of the Emory association, and has attended the conventions of the Association of Alumni Secretaries, which convened as the guests of the University of Chicago in Chicago, Ill., and Columbia university in New York. Mr. Connolly urged Atlanta ways to sponsor reunions of classes. He was made chairman of the constitution and by-laws committee.

Dean W. S. Elkin, of the Emory medical college, spoke in behalf of the new association, saying that the Medical Alumni association was heartily in sympathy with the movement. Judge Thomas H. Jeffries, ordinary of Fulton county and a graduate of Emory college; Bishop Warren Candler, and other speakers declared Emory an asset to Atlanta, and called Atlanta the "Athens of the South."

Dillard Sewell, benefactor of the Glee club in its South Carolina tour, was present and made a short speech. James A. Dombroski, business manager of the Emory University Glee club, was made secretary of the new alumni association. The officers elected to perform their duties until the meeting of the Alumni association, which will be held in June. At that time the new constitution will be submitted by the constitution committee and steps will be made to employ a full time secretary to conduct the affairs of the association.

PIONEER GRAIN MERCHANT WILL BE BURIED TODAY

The funeral of William S. Duncan, pioneer Atlanta grain merchant, who died Thursday, will be held this morning at 11 o'clock at the Trinity Methodist church, where he served as steward for the last 40 years.

Dr. S. R. Belk, assisted by Rev. C. O. Jones, will officiate. The funeral will be attended by members of the various fraternal orders to which Mr. Duncan belonged. The services at the graveside will be conducted by the Gate City lodge, A. F. & A. M.

The following will act as pall bearers: E. W. Martin, W. A. Foster, E. H. Waldrop, W. B. Estes, J. E. Rouse, R. H. Jones, A. McKibben, George S. Lowndes, Sr., Asa G. Candler, H. M. Dorsey, C. D. Montgomery and C. G. Erwin. Members of the Corner Lion commandery, Knights Templar, and the Atlanta consistory, Scottish Rite Masons, will act as an honorary escort. Burial will be in West View. H. May Indict 24 In Great Bogus Currency Plot

Jury to Get Evidence on Wednesday—Other Arrests Expected.

New York, February 23.—Evidence against 24 leaders of the international counterfeiters' plot uncovered this week will be presented to the federal grand jury Wednesday.

The announcement was made today by Assistant United States Attorney Menin, who is directing the prosecution. He said he expected to clear up the entire case within a month.

The maximum penalty for making, possessing or passing counterfeit money is 15 years. Secret service operatives said they believed they had accumulated enough evidence in the present case, involving from $1,000,000 to $10,000,000, to insure conviction on three counts, with imprisonment for 45 years.

Meanwhile, claiming they have bagged the ringleaders, federal agents predicted that smaller fry would be snared in other parts of the country.

Home Is Burned.

Macon, Ga., February 23.—(Special.)—The handsome home of Dan C. Horgan, at Rivoli, adjoining Mr. Horgan's Idle Hour nursery property, was burned to the ground today. The house was one of the show places of Bibb county and was handsomely furnished. Very little household goods were saved. The loss is partly covered by insurance. Mr. Horgan plans to rebuild at once.

Negro Is Respite.

Swainsboro, Ga., February 23.—Seth Johnson, negro, 20, who was sentenced to hang here today for the slaying of his wife and mother-in-law, was given a reprieve late yesterday afternoon by Governor Hardwick, until May 4. The reprieve was granted upon showing made by the negro's attorneys, I. W. Housner and Arthur Jordan, who claim newly discovered evidence will aid in his proving their client innocent of the murder charges. The two attorneys returned this morning from Atlanta.

Beauty Secrets of Film Stars

A SYLPH WITHOUT SUFFERING

How Lila Lee wards off the extra ounce by careful exercise—she diets too.

If you are one of those young girls who trouble every time the scales show an increase of two ounces, or one of those young matrons who have a horror of getting a double chin, think of Lila Lee. How does she do it? Lila Lee answers the question by asking how Dempsey and Carpentier made sure of having no excess weight. It is the partly diet, of course, but most of all Lila depends on exercise. The box of chocolate between meals, the occasional ice cream soda, potatoes and bread and beans all in one meal, these are things that rarely tempt Lila Lee from the path of slenderness. But these things are avoided by many women who still tip the scales at 200.

The real secret is exercise. Lila walks to many places where it would be easy to drive in her car, she plays tennis and rides horseback and swims when the weather invites her rather than to lie in a hammock and drink lemonade. Little tasks around the house that require raised arms or bent back Lila Lee performs instead of sitting with folded arms.

Next time you see Lila Lee take a look at her figure and see if you think exercise pays. (Copyright, 1923, for The Constitution.)

Will Probe Fire Which Caused Thirteen Deaths

Six Bodies in Kansas City Blaze Remain Unidentified Late Friday Night.

Kansas City, Kan., February 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—Thirteen persons, trapped in a rooming house, were burned to death today in a fire which destroyed a two-story frame building in the Armourville district. The bodies were recovered but six of them had not been identified tonight.

An official investigation will be started tomorrow. The fire started in a garage beneath the rooming house and had almost enveloped the building before the occupants were awakened.

Thomas C. Hatley, owner of the garage, was sleeping in his office when the fire broke out. "I was awakened by an intense heat," he said. "I haven't the least idea what could have caused the fire. I am sure there was no explosion."

E. J. D. Hodge, a chauffeur, said today he drove into the garage late last night. He said the stove in the garage office was red hot.

The building housed 34 persons, 21 of whom escaped either by jumping out windows or groping their way down a smoke-filled stairway.

Fire department officials estimated the damage at $35,000.

Claim Carriers Ask 10 Per Cent Raise in Rates

Proposals of carriers serving territory south of the Potomac and Ohio rivers and east of the Mississippi river, outlined before the interstate commerce commission Friday, if accepted, would result, it is claimed, in an increase of approximately 10 per cent in freight rates in the entire south-east.

Commissioner J. B. Eastman, of the interstate commerce commission, and Examiner W. J. Wagner, of the interstate commerce commission, are conducting the hearing at the Piedmont hotel, and sitting with them are J. A. Perry, chairman of the Georgia public service commission; Alexander Forward, chairman of the Virginia state corporation commission; Hudson Burr, chairman of the Florida railroad commission, and A. G. Patterson, chairman of the Alabama public service commission.

C. E. Bell Examined.

The first part of the hearing at the morning session was taken up with the cross-examination of C. E. Bell, representing the Virginia cities of Lynchburg, Roanoke and others. Mr. Bell was examined on testimony furnished at the hearing of the carriers.

W. B. Maxwell, chairman of the North Carolina public service commission, and C. E. Cotterill, general counsel of the Southern Traffic league, conducted the cross-examination.

D. M. Goodwyn, freight traffic manager of the Louisville & Nashville, Louisville, representing the carriers, followed Mr. Bell on the stand, and before adjournment at 4:30 o'clock put in Part I of the carriers' rebuttal. The rebuttal is in four parts, and Mr. Goodwyn will render the others at the Saturday and subsequent sessions of the hearing.

Efforts to reach agreements on the class relationship rates featured the hearing Friday. Proposals have been submitted by both shippers and carriers, according to the system known as a first class rate with class relationships. The proposals of the shippers differed from that of the carriers, and the carriers refused to accept the schedule as laid down by the shippers, but conceded that the class relationship portion of the proposal would be accepted provided the first class rate named in the proposal of the carriers be substituted for the first class rate proposed by the shippers.

At the session Monday figures were submitted which showed that the proposals of the carriers would result in an increase of about 15 per cent over present revenues, and with the proposal of the carriers Friday to accept the class relationship basis suggested by the shippers and adhere to the first class rate named in their proposals, it developed that only about 6-1-2 per cent would be taken of the total revenues which would have been realized on putting into operation the exact proposal made by the carriers thus leaving about 11-1-2 per cent increase over present rates.

In event that a ruling is granted giving the carriers the first class rate proposed by them and the class relationship schedule proposed by the shippers, it was pointed out that an increase of 10 per cent over present freight rates would result, thus nullifying the order of the commission last summer for a 10 per cent rate reduction of all carriers.

Hearing will be resumed Saturday morning, adjournment at 1 o'clock.

GOOD MORNING HAVE YOU HAD YOUR BRITLING BREAKFAST YET?

If you live in an apartment, if you are a single man downtown, a business woman, or a stranger in town, this ad is addressed particularly to you and invites you to Start the Day Right With a Britling Breakfast

The Britling is conveniently located to the business man or woman who works downtown, and the Britling Breakfast is a boon to those living away from home and Mother, deprived of the old-fashioned good things they had back home.

Britling Breakfasts are perhaps not so good as your own home breakfasts, but they are the next thing to them. Maybe the biscuits, muffins, cakes and waffles are not quite so good as "mother used to make," but they sure are good and they sure have that homey taste.

Discriminating people in Atlanta, Birmingham, Memphis or Dallas—folks who "know," will tell you that a Britling Breakfast is better, and many of them say:

CONVICT JENKINS OF KILLING NEGRO

Gets One to Three Years Following Voluntary Manslaughter Verdict for Ex-Slave's Death.

Sylvania, Ga., February 23.—Joe Jenkins, charged with slaying of Cuz Jones, an aged negro ex-slave, near here last December, was tonight found guilty of voluntary manslaughter and sentenced to one to three years in the penitentiary. The jury deliberated four hours.

According to the evidence introduced at the trial, Jenkins' automobile broke down at Millhaven, and he went to a negro house to obtain aid.

It was testified that Jones, who was forced to go with Jenkins, was beaten over the head with a pistol wielded by the white man. Then a pistol shot was heard.

A short time later the body of Jones was found, a bullet through the skull and the head nearly severed from the body. Prominent white people of this community insisted upon a rigid investigation. Jenkins was located in Colorado and brought back for trial. Jones was an ante-bellum negro.

Completion of testimony, the statement by the defendant and the statement by Miss Nunnally, in the car with Jenkins at the time of the slaying, featured the morning session of the unusual trial here today.

The evidence was completed at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. Judge H. B. Strange allowed counsel for both sides two and one-half hours each to argue the case.

The defendant's statement was spoken in a very low tone and could hardly be heard beyond the jury box. He attributed the killing to the alleged insolent manner characteristic of the negro and declared that the fight was started after Jones had cursed him.

"When my car stuck in the mud, I called upon Jones for help," the defendant stated. "While we were trying to get the car out, he cursed me. When I started to reply, he drew a knife and cut at me several times—this was before I ever pulled a pistol. I then shot him, but he kept on fighting. We fell in a ditch, and he cut me across the arm." Jenkins' coat sleeve was offered in evidence at this juncture.

Nunnally, who was with Jenkins during the fight, confirmed Jenkins' statement in the main. He stated that Jones cursed Jenkins, and that this started the fight.

Several witnesses were put on the stand by the defense this morning to prove the good character of the defendant. The defense also introduced several witnesses who swore that the negro who was slain was ill tempered and generally disliked.

The witnesses heard yesterday in the main testified that Jenkins, having gotten his car stuck in the mud, called upon Jones' daughter to help him get out and that Jones offered to help him for a dollar. Shortly after that a shot was heard and the one negro fell.

Miss Nunnally, in the car with Jenkins, and who told the complete story of how the old negro was killed, will not be tried at this term of court. He is held as an accomplice to the murder.

Atlanta Training School to Issue New Publication

The newly-elected staff of the Atlanta Normal Training school periodical, authorized at the last meeting of the student body of the school, is preparing copy for the first issue which will be published at an early date. The members of the staff are: Pearl Bokrisky, editor-in-chief; Jessie Muldrow and Elizabeth Williamson, assistant editors; Dorothy Cook, business manager; Kathryn Colvin and Nellie Means, art editors; Edith Marchman, advertising manager; Sarah Freeman, contributing editor; Ruth Green, social editor; Etta Klein, joke editor.

BABY IS BADLY BURNED Helen Holbrook Falls Into Basin of Hot Water.

Helen May Holbrook, 2-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Holbrook, 124 Elmwood drive, was seriously burned Friday morning when she fell into a basin of boiling water.

Just how the accident occurred has not been learned, according to the parents. A basin of boiling water had been left on the floor by a servant, and it was supposed that the child was playing and fell into it. No one witnessed the accident.

The misfortune to the little girl follows closely on the heels of an automobile accident which put her brother, Henry Holbrook, 7 years of age, in the hospital with two fractures of the leg and other injuries.

The child was said to have been struck by an automobile which Mrs. May Ney was driving. He was riding his velocipede in front of his home when the car hit him. Dr. Holbrook stated.

Albert Hazen, 2 years old, of 365 Central avenue, was severely burned Friday morning when he overturned a pot of boiling water upon the stove in the kitchen at his home. He was rushed to Grady hospital.

McDowell Blaze Was Incendiary Says Chief Cody

Strong Odor of Oil Still Noticeable in Room, He Asserts.

That the fire early Tuesday morning in which Misses Willie Mattee and Marian, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John M. McDowell, widely known citizens of Decatur, lost their lives, unquestionably was of incendiary origin, was the opinion expressed last night by Chief W. B. Cody of the Atlanta fire department.

Chief Cody was called into the case by Robert C. W. Ramspeck, acting solicitor general of the Stone Mountain circuit, and Sheriff J. A. McCurdy of DeKalb county.

Together with some of his men Chief Cody Friday afternoon visited the scene of the fatal blaze and carefully examined the remains of the burned home.

"There is no doubt that the fire started in the attic room and that either gasoline or kerosene was used," Mr. Ramspeck says he was told by Chief Cody after the examination. "A strong odor of the oil still is noticeable in the room."

Started Inside Room.

"I am sure that the fire was started inside the room, because I had one of my men go under the house, and he reported that no evidences of the fire were visible there."

Chief Cody later made the same statement to The Constitution. He added that had defective wiring caused the actual starting of the fire, the roof of the McDowell home would have been badly damaged, while the roof was only slightly burned. Also, he stated that evidences of the ravages of the fire were less in the region of the fireplace and chimney than at other parts of the room.

The negroes, Johnny, Bud and Dimpie Nix, implicated in the confession Wednesday afternoon by Dimpie Nix made in the presence of officers and newspaper men in the DeKalb county jail, still are being held without bond in the Fulton county jail.

There is not sufficient evidence at this time to justify a formal charge against the negroes, according to Mr. Ramspeck, but they will be held pending the outcome of the investigation that is being held by the Decatur officials.

Still Credit Confession.

Officers still credit the confession made by the negro woman who was discharged from the McDowell home a few days before the fire, despite her repudiation of the confession after conferring with Attorney Fred Harrison in the tower Thursday morning.

This repudiation was made in the fact of a corroborative statement made by the woman's sister, Winnie White, who said she overheard a part of the alleged threats and admission of the crime that the Nix woman said her husband, John Nix, made to her.

Attorney Harrison states he has been retained to represent all three of the negroes.

Officers who have been investigating the alleged alibis of the negro men on the night of the fire have not announced their complete findings, but it is understood that the claims of the negroes do not coincide with the findings of the officers, M. H. Phillips and O. G. McConnell.

Christian Endeavor Forms New Society At Decatur Today

All members of the Junior Christian Endeavor societies in Atlanta will meet at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Decatur Presbyterian church to organize a new society, it was stated Friday by Miss Mamie Glenn Cole, southern states junior secretary.

Thirty-five new societies have been organized in the southern states recently, ten of them located in Atlanta.

Miss Mildred Cole, 17 Matthews street, Kirkwood, registering for Atlanta district delegates who will attend the state convention in Macon, April 20-22, stated that the registration list is growing rapidly and that the Georgia organization is confident of exceeding Florida in number of delegates. More than 1,000 is the goal set for Georgia. Miss Julia Parks, 246 Williams street, Macon, will also receive registrations. The fee is $1.

Bob McFarland, chairman of the Atlanta development committee, is organizing new mission study and expert classes in societies of various churches in the city. Nearly 1,000 members attended the last senior rally. The local organization includes 2,000 senior members, 600 intermediate and 800 junior members.

Brazilian Subscribers To The Constitution Tri-Weekly Friday

Three times a week for the next twelve months, a copy of The Constitution Tri-Weekly will travel over southern seas to Sao Paulo, Brazil, where it will be delivered to J. N. Meriwether at Rua Bonita 101.

HUDSON MAXIM SCORES APATHY IN CONGRESS

Famed Scientist Addresses Large Audience in Athens Theater.

Athens, Ga., February 23.—Apathy of congressmen to the needs of the nation was scored last night by Dr. Hudson Maxim, internationally famed scientist, who spoke to a large crowd of Athenians at a local theater on "External and Internal Defense."

Dr. Maxim was here as the guest of the city upon invitation of various civic groups.

Pointing out the internal dangers to the country as a result of the "political demagogue," criminal classes, the labor parasite and destructive insect pests, the speaker also directed the attention of the audience to the perils of unpreparedness for external defense.

He congratulated the south for having here "the true Nordic type of manhood to support the backbone of the nation" and praised the R. O. T. C. at the University of Georgia, asserting that it was the second finest body of young men he has seen.

To meet the means of external defense the speaker advocated a large merchant marine, big navy and enough officers to train men. Creation of jobs to repair political decay was scored by the speaker.

He mentioned the race problem in the south and admitted with a smile that "we of the north are understanding better now than you know how to handle the race problem. We are learning more how to handle it, too." He referred to the 14th amendment. "What an idiotic thing it was," he said.

Dr. Maxim, who was a member of the naval consulting board during the recent war, and whose prophecy of war between Russia and Japan, and the late war, came to pass, said the United States has nothing to fear from Japan. He advocated national aid in fighting the boll weevil.

SCOUT TROOPER SAVES 4 LIVES, LETTER REVEALS

The heroic action of an unidentified Boy Scout who saved the lives of four people when their automobile stalled in the path of an onrushing train was revealed Friday in a letter to Scout Executive A. A. Jamieson, from Mrs. G. R. Aiken, South Boulevard.

In her letter, Mrs. Aiken stated that her car, occupied by herself, her crippled husband and their two children, stalled in the middle of the tracks at the South Boulevard crossing.

The train was coming around the curve, Mrs. Aiken states, "and before I could realize the seriousness of the situation, the scout, who was riding a bicycle, rushed to our rescue and saving almost superhuman strength, pushed our car to safety, just as the train sped by, missing us only by a few feet."

Efforts are being made to identify the boy, as Mrs. Aiken, in the excitement attending the narrow escape from death or serious injury, failed to get the youth's name.

Klan Headquarters Will Now Direct Propagation Work

Fred L. Savage, imperial kladdiff of the Ku Klux Klan, Friday announced that E. Y. Clarke, imperial giant, had formally turned over to the imperial headquarters of the Klan the propagation department of the order.

It was announced last November by Mr. Clarke that he was preparing to relinquish control of the propagation work of the Klan.

The statement given out by Mr. Savage and signed by H. W. Evans, imperial advisor, was as follows: "In conformity with general plans announced to the press in November last year, Edward Young Clarke today formally turned over to imperial headquarters of the Ku Klux Klan the entire machinery and control of the propagation department of the order, which department he organized and of which he has been head. Effective today, all propagation activities of the Ku Klux Klan will be under the guidance and direction of imperial headquarters."

TWO STORES LOOTED HERE EARLY FRIDAY

Burglars ransacked the store of C. B. Ponder company, 1 Washington street, taking 200 pounds of sugar, 216 pounds of lard, a set of auto tools and other articles before daybreak Friday morning.

The doors were found closed and locked—as they were left Thursday night—and it is thought entrance was gained through the use of skeleton keys.

The coal chute was the route burglars chose in entering the branch store of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., 121 Whitehall street, where $4.51 in money and a quantity of groceries were taken.

Thieves stole a pistol and clothing from J. P. Harris, 301 Pulliam street, while Fred Downs, 348 Simpson street, reported the theft of a platinum ring set with a diamond.

Education Board Officials Urged To Cut Expenses

Commissioner McCalley and Superintendent Sutton Visit Mayor Sims.

Reiterating his disapproval of certain expenditures made by the board of education, Mayor Walter A. Sims, Friday at a conference with board members declared that the "schools as well as other municipal departments, must curb expenses if the city is to overcome its greatest financial deficiency."

W. L. McCalley, chairman of the finance committee of the education board and Superintendent Willis A. Sutton visited the mayor's office Friday morning, following Mayor Sims' comment Thursday in signing a half dozen checks to defray expenses of teachers on a tour of northern cities to study junior high school administration.

"We feel that you have been too busy with other matters to ascertain the exact school situation," declared Mr. McCalley. "We are here to set you straight and ask your assistance. The people of Atlanta are behind the school department now more than ever before. It is their belief that the schools are not getting enough revenue to properly maintain them, in view of the increased enrollments."

The mayor assured Mr. McCalley and Superintendent Sutton that he "would always go the full limit for the schools," but stated that he did not believe the $900 appropriated by the board to pay expenses of the teachers on the trip north was necessary.

"There is no one in Atlanta," asserted the mayor, who has at heart the interest of the schools more than I, but I must impress on the school department as well as every branch of the city government, the importance of curbing expenditures at this time."

Both Commissioner McCalley and Superintendent Sutton pledged the mayor to do their utmost in keeping down expenses. They defended the board's action in appropriating the funds for the northern trip, however, stating that it was for the best interest of the schools and city.

Central Y. M. C. A. Opens Sunday School Membership Campaign

The Central Y. M. C. A., 75 Luckie street, has begun a campaign to get every member living in the dormitory to attend Sunday school on Sunday mornings. Those who are not already in Sunday school will be urged to attend while the school is in session. The plan is already under way and the committee is visiting the "dormitories."

After the drive for enrollment is finished every member will be reminded each week of his attendance at Sunday school and urged to attend regularly.

The Y. M. C. A. Sunday school committee is composed of G. A. Beattie, C. W. Hall, Reginald Frye, R. A. White, G. W. Chambers, W. D. Parkins, W. C. Melson, J. D. Printup, Joe Persons, O. H. Layfield, C. W. Jordan, Manley Robinson and E. C. Stow.

SECOND DIVISION MEN PLAN 'POSSUM DINNER'

The Second Division association, Georgia chapter, will hold a "possum" dinner in the breakfast room of the Kimball house at 7 o'clock tonight. This is the first of a scheduled series of events planned by William F. Slaton, Jr., president of the association. The Georgia chapter, although but recently formed, promises to become one of the largest in the country.

It is estimated that approximately 400 former members of the Second division reside in this state, and it is the intention of Secretary Raymond V. Bergen, No. 402 Chamber of Commerce building, Atlanta, to get in touch with each individual before Memorial day, and it is requested that all men eligible for membership, furnish Mr. Bergen with their names, address and organization to which formerly attached.

Gwen Richardson, of London, England, is the first white woman to explore the wilds of British Guiana.

Two Homes Burned And Three Damaged By Flames Friday

Two homes were burned down and three badly damaged in fires Friday. Three of the residences were located on Howell Mill road. Those seriously damaged were residences of H. L. Barr, 24 Lake avenue; B. C. Chastain, 41 Howell Mill road and G. M. Ailes, 43 Howell Mill road.

Barr's home, which is located next door to that of Trice, on Lake avenue, caught from the fire that destroyed Trice's residence. The residence of Chastain and that of Ailes caught from Mrs. Bruce's home. The total damage will not exceed $15,000, it is estimated.

How Germany Is Defying the French Steam-Roller

Hugo Stinnes, Germany's richest man and, rumor says, the virtual dictator of her economic destiny, declares curtly concerning France's stranglehold on the Ruhr basin: "No negotiations by us: We shall fight it out." In terms equally explicit General Degoutte, commander of the French forces of occupation, announces that "never, until Germany makes adequate settlement for the frightful wrongs and damages inflicted upon my country, will I order my troops to withdraw." And speaking in Dusseldorf to a representative of the Associated Press, General Degoutte declared, "I solemnly warn Germany if a single one of my soldiers is harmed and she forces another battle on us, she will not stay our hands by crying 'Kamerad'! It will be a fight to the finish—a complete knockout."

The leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week (February 24) shows the progress of the French occupation of the Ruhr basin and presents public opinion upon the subject from all angles. This interesting article is graphically illustrated with half-tones, cartoons, and a map which shows the grip that France has upon industrial Germany.

PAIRINGS IN BASEBALL TOURNAMENT COMPLETE

Possibility of Georgia And Tech Meeting; Mercer Plays Auburn First Day

North Carolina, Champions of Last Year, Pair With Mississippi College on Tuesday—Four Teams Withdraw.

TULANE WITHDRAWS.

New Orleans, La., February 23.—"Monk" Simons, coach of the Tulane basketball team, announced that Tulane would not attend the Southern Intercollegiate Basketball tournament which begins February 27, on account of injury to three of the team's best players.

BY HENRY ALLEN.

With 24 teams from seven states entered the pairings for the Southern Intercollegiate Basketball tournament, which gets under way Tuesday, were completed yesterday afternoon. The drawing was held at the Atlanta Athletic club, under whose auspices the tournament is being held, and were made by a committee composed of Herman J. Stegman, of the University of Georgia; Josh Cody, Mercer; Tech; Clemson, of Auburn; and Al Doonan, of the Athletic club.

The teams were divided into two brackets with twelve teams in each. The games are so arranged that the winners in each bracket will meet on the final night for the championship.

In the upper bracket are Centre, Clemson, Tennessee, Georgia, Furman, Millsaps, Mississippi college, North Carolina, Georgia Tech, Tulane, Mississippi A. & M. and University of Mississippi.

In the lower bracket are Auburn, Mercer, Wofford, Alabama, Georgetown, Chattanooga, Louisiana State University, Vanderbilt, Newberry, South Carolina, Sewanee and Virginia Polytechnic institute.

Eight games first day. Sixteen teams will be brought into action on the first day in eight games, the first of which will start at 1 o'clock. According to the official schedule one hour has been allotted for each game and the program will run until 10 o'clock that night with one hour for lunch.

The teams that will swing into action on the first day are Centre, Clemson, Tennessee, Georgia, Furman, Millsaps, Mississippi college, North Carolina, Auburn, Mercer, Wofford, Alabama, Georgetown, Chattanooga, Louisiana State University and Vanderbilt.

The eight teams drawing byes for the first day are as follows: Georgia Tech, Tulane, Mississippi A. & M., University of Mississippi, Newberry, South Carolina, Sewanee and Virginia Polytechnic institute.

Georgia May Play Tech. There is a strong possibility of the University of Georgia and Georgia Tech coming together during the first night of the tournament. To make this possible, Georgia will have to eliminate Tennessee and Tulane, Georgia Tech will have to eliminate North Carolina and Mississippi college.

These two institutions discontinued athletic relations during the spring of 1919. Only once since that time have athletic teams representing those institutions met, that being in the basketball tournament of 1921.

At this game the largest crowd that has ever attended a basketball game in the south packed the Auditorium. Georgia was winning, losing out a 5-point victory. The final score was 25 to 21.

If Georgia should find a stride with Ed Gurr leading the attack, no doubt they will be returned to the top of the Georgia Tech ladder. Neither of these teams have displayed a strong attack at any time this season.

Georgia Tech is picked to win the tournament, whichever team may be returned winner on the first night, Auburn or Mercer.

There is little chance of Auburn and Alabama meeting during the tournament. These teams have not played in several years and followers of both quintets were hoping they would get together.

Auburn drew Mercer on the first night and the Madison institution has been picked to go to the semi-finals again this year. Alabama is paired with Wofford on the first night, while Wednesday the Crimson five will meet the University of North Carolina, who drew a bye for the first day.

North Carolina, champions last year, drew Mississippi college on the first night and should be an easy winner. If they come through winners, University of Mississippi quint will be the next opponent.

The University of Alabama will meet Wofford. Little is known of the powerful Crimson five should be an easy winner. Mercer will not doubt win over Auburn.

The powerful University of Chattanooga quint will meet the Georgetown.

Lanier and Boys' High Battle for G.I.A.A. Crown

CLAY READY FOR 1ST CUT

Coach Clay has just about made up his mind as to who will survive his first real slicing of Tech's baseball squad. For three weeks now he has been watching with a keen eye the new prospects which have been reporting. During that time the fellows have been put through the rudiments of baseball very thoroughly. The weather a couple of times has been such as to warrant a little game. In this way, he has had a real opportunity to see just what each man is capable of producing under fire.

When questioned recently concerning the new men which had reported to him, he was very enthusiastic. "I have never seen so many likely looking youngsters out for the team since I came to Tech eight years ago," said Coach Clay.

And George Griffin says the same thing. "I don't recall ever seeing a bunch of freshmen prospects. He believes he has discovered the world champion pitcher in Dick Fair, a product of G. M. A. Dick played on the freshman football team at tackle. He is almost as big as Joe Jurey, weighing about 190, and is every bit as fast. He ought to be able to throw the discus.

Two or three freshmen are showing up well in the distance runs. These men are under the careful supervision of Captain Pinkney Davis. All in all, Tech will not suffer next year because of a dearth of incoming freshmen this year.

The program as mapped out for the first day is as follows:

1 p. m.—Georgia vs. Tennessee, Referee, Sutton; umpire, Yates.

2 p. m.—Centre vs. Clemson, Referee, Yates; umpire, Fisher.

3 p. m.—Georgia vs. Tennessee, Referee, Sutton; umpire, Yates.

4 p. m.—Georgetown vs. Chattanooga, Referee, Sutton; umpire, Yates.

5 p. m.—North Carolina vs. Mississippi college, Referee, Yates; umpire, Fisher.

Captain Dudley, of Auburn, Is Splendid Basket Player

Fighting Spirit of "Tiger of the Plains" Expected to Help Team in Basketball Meet.

BY JOHN STATION

In figuring possible winners of the basketball tournament it is always wise to think about this:

In any kind of figuring and calculating, it is never wise to pass over Auburn. For, just when the Tiger seems whipped down, up springs the Beast into action and victory.

In the football season of 1919, Tech thought that Auburn was easy picking. Auburn had been easy picking prior to that game. But Tech took the game too easily, and Auburn whipped the Jackets all over Great field for four quarters and earned a decisive victory.

Last year, Center, the college that had burned up the word by its notable defeat of the great Harvard team in 1921, was playing Auburn in Birmingham. Said Red Roberts, and echoed the result: "This will be an easy day for us. Our rap is sufficient to tide us over this game. We can rest."

They rested all right, but it was on a certain portion of the Auburn field, blocked off by his punts, and defeated the Colonels.

But what's more, "has that got to do with basketball?"

Only this. Be sure and include Auburn as an entry in the tournament.

They have not shown much consistency this season, but you never can tell what they will do when everything points against them.

Auburn has a good team. Occasionally they rise to greater heights. It must have been so the night they defeated Georgia 44-16. That was just a day ahead of the defeat which McKinney shot a one-pointer for the first center for Auburn, closely followed by two one-pointers by "Baby" Roane, star Jacket guard.

Dudley Leads Attack. Dudley, the little Tiger forward, led his team in scoring with 12 points. He was the only player to score on an eight to five count and early in the game.

BY EMMETT SEYMORE

Auburn, Ala., February 23.—(Special.)—Auburn 29, Georgia Tech 26. This is the score of the most thrilling game seen since the Tiger campus this season and will go down in history as the greatest of the season.

Auburn had journeyed to the Tech flats for a game earlier in the season. With the Jackets took them in to a 33 to 16 victory.

The Tigers have a rather unique record thus far this season. They have scored a victory over every foe played in the South Atlantic states and defeat overtook the Hutsell men at every game on foreign courts.

The game tonight concludes the regular schedule of the season with the exception of the tournament beginning in Atlanta Tuesday. Soon after the game started the visitors stepped ahead and made a 12 to 0 lead.

But the second period the Alexander men again showed ahead on the big end of a twenty-three to twenty-two score. With these two exceptions, the Tigers maintained the lead throughout. The lead was too close to be comfortable for the crowded Auburn galleries.

Tech hit half ended Auburn 18, Tech 14.

The counting began almost simultaneously with the referee's whistle.

Gene Tunney Again Light Heavyweight Champion

Defeats Harry Greb in 15-Round Bout at Madison Square Garden—Champion Uses Unfair Tactics

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

(United News Staff Correspondent.)

Ringside, Madison Square Garden, N. Y., February 23.—Gene Tunney, who fought with the marines in France, came back at Harry Greb, the man who whipped him for the American light heavyweight championship a year ago, and gave him a thorough-going smashing in the storied fighting ring of Madison Square Garden Friday night.

It was a teamsters' brawl from the first going when Greb came rushing out with a left lead at Tunney's knees which blew in some magic manner was suddenly transformed into a looping right to the back of the neck, until the final clench caught them mauling one another in a clinch.

But Tunney had gained in science and smashing power and also had learned a lesson from his defeat at the flying fists of the Pittsburgh Dutchman a year ago. At the end Tunney had a useful knack of stepping forward or back a half stride as Greb came whaling in, which made Greb miss his punches and gave him a goodly amount of space.

Gene's shoulders. And as this flash action occurred, Tunney's solid knuckles would grind into Greb's body or pop him on the jaw. By the middle of the fifteen-round fight, Greb's left side all around his heart was raw with welts like the flinching shoulders of a convict under the vengeful lash of the electric chair.

Greb's comparatively small body could accumulate all that banging and smashing and still retain the white-hot resilience is no less a mystery than his fighting style which has puzzled many a ringside noodle.

Fights Mental Handicap.

Greb fought under a peculiar mental handicap imposed by the frantic just-before-the-battle protests of Tunney and his manager, Billy Gibson.

The manager claimed that Greb's manners were notoriously foul and must be closely scrutinized by the referee, Patsy Haley. A midring lec-

CARTER WINS 1ST TOURNEY

Bellevue Heights, Fla., February 23. The annual Washington's birthday tournament ended on the links at Belleair today with a victory for Captain E. F. Carter, the famous British golfer. This is Captain Carter's first tournament in America and incidentally his first victory. He defeated Richard Lounsbury, of the Westchester Biltmore club, today over the 36-hole route by a margin of 7 and 6.

The match started out as if it were going to be close and interesting. When the twelfth hole was reached there was no advantage on either side. Carter had been up twice but Lounsbury regained the holes easily. On the thirteenth hole Lounsbury put his second shot into the hole, but Carter's result became one down. From this time on the British golfer pressed his advantage. He finished the morning round with four up which was too much of a handicap for the metropolitan golfer to overcome. In the afternoon neither one played well.

Lounsbury took a long hit at the short fourth hole for a 12 and 2 and this was the only hole he won during the afternoon, although Captain Carter left many openings. Carter out of the hole for a 12 and 2 and this was the only hole he won during the afternoon, although Captain Carter left many openings.

But, that makes it all the harder for them to get accustomed to the court at the auditorium. Even in the final game, when the men seemed lost for a long time, they did not seem able to find each other.

This is true of Auburn. They have been getting better as the season has progressed. They are really dangerous now.

SHAHER WINS TENNIS BOUT

Miami, Fla., February 23.—G. Carlton Shafer, of New York, winner of the Bahama Island tournament, and Dr. P. R. Hawk, of New York, former veteran champion, will meet tomorrow afternoon in the finals of the men's singles event of the scheduled Miami championship of the southern Florida tennis tournament. During the afternoon, Miss Clara Cassel, of New York, Bahama champion, will meet Frank Godfrey, of Boston, in the finals of the women's singles event. Finals in the men's doubles and the mixed doubles will be played Sunday.

Both Shafer and Dr. Hawk were extended to the limit today to win their way to the finals. Shafer had a narrow escape in the second set, losing to Hawk, 6-3, 6-0. Shafer, every game of which was won after a duce score, Shafer won his way to the finals by defeating 8-6, 6-4, and James Calder, of the Miami.

The men's doubles feature matches were the victory of Beals C. Wright, former national singles champion, and Shafer over Claude P. Bickford, 6-1, 6-2, and the victory of Searle, Chicago, and Ralph Raper, Miami, over Raul Chacon and Oscar Giron, 6-3, 6-0.

Cuban team had defeated the team of W. A. Larned, former national singles champion and Arthur Gwynne, of Boston.

Wright and Mrs. Godfrey, who are paired in the mixed doubles, won their first match in that event by defeating Searle, of Chicago, and Miss Willetta Elliott, 6-0, 6-2.

FULTON GIRL FIVE WINS THRILLER

A foul shot by Zachery in the five-minute extra period of the basketball game between Fulton and Marietta girls yesterday afternoon, on the court at the Y. W. C. A., gave Fulton girls a 15 to 12 win over the Cobb county girls.

The score was close throughout, with neither team showing a decided advantage. The first half was a 6 to 6 tie. The first third was 3 to 2 in favor of the winners. The second third found both teams tied, 8 to 8.

The playing of Zachery was the feature of the contest. Smith, an other forward, played jam-up ball. The teamwork and passing of both teams were excellent.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM WINS SWIMMING MEET

The swimming team representing both the Boys' high school and Tech high school defeated the Georgia Tech squad 48 to 30 in a meet held at the Y. M. C. A. last night.

Landry's Fine Passing. Lanier High exhibited a great pass combination in Skinner, Green, Holmes and Dicks and resorted to the machine route for short runs, above all the baskets.

Despite the loss of young Strling, the Lanier High team continues to be the favorite in the tournament and the game that Charley Morgan's students put up Friday night was exceptionally good in every respect. Every player seemed to know his position and a time to be in place. The work of the entire Lanier team was good but Dicks, Skinner and Green showed up.

Holt, Hatcher and Rosenfeld played best for Riverside. Early in the second half, the Riverside team came into one point of being the score but Lanier finally spoiled the score for Riverside.

The Line-ups: LANIER (31) For, RIVERSIDE (21) Skinner (10).....Holt (12) Green (11).....L.f., Rosenfeld (7) Dicks (4).....Riddle (2) Hatcher Long.....Fisher Referee, Eyles; umpire, Parker.

COMPANY TEAMS DECIDE GRID RAG TODAY

The much delayed, much discussed championship game in Tech company football between Companies B and M, will be played this afternoon, regardless of weather, conditions, feelings or what not.

The teams have been practicing diligently ever since directly after the close of the regular season. And even the greatest of sports becomes monotonous after so long a time. So, both teams are on edge for action.

It should be a good game. The two teams are about evenly stacked up. That is demonstrated by the fact that they played 60 full minutes with only a 3-point difference between them.

Coach Lyman, of Company B, and Coach Gardner, of Company M, expressed confidence of victory. Since both cannot win, one must be mistaken in his attitude towards the game.

The game will start promptly at 2 o'clock down on the lower field. The admission will be as free as air. Come out and see a good game, breathe the pure air and enjoy yourself.

As a result of a will left by La Verne W. Noyes, a prominent Chicagoan who died in 1919, 400 men and women who served in the world war will be given scholarships in the best institutions in America. Thirty scholarships for nurses are to be awarded.

B. H. S. Springs Big Surprise By Stopping Tech High Five; Lanier Defeats Riverside

Smithies Held Scoreless by Boys' High for Ten Minutes—Fine Passing of Lanier Outfit Paves the Way to Victory.

BY ROY E. WHITE

(Constitution Staff Correspondent.)

Macon, Ga., February 23.—(Special.)—Displaying a dazzling offensive attack the Boys' High team won a ticket into the G. I. A. A. final Friday night by defeating Tech High 28 to 24 in a typical Smithies-Boys' High game. It was the first basketball victory for Boys' High over Tech High in several years. By virtue of the victory, Boys' High will play Lanier for the G. I. A. A. basketball championship Saturday night, Riverside being defeated by Lanier, 31 to 21.

The score indicates a slow game but it was just the opposite. Both teams possessed a combination of offense and a defensive system that is hard to pierce and Tech High was never able to get through with any degree of consistency.

Boys' High took the lead early in the game and for ten minutes held the Smithies scoreless. Then Breck scored a foul and quickly followed with a short field shot. A few seconds later Breck negotiated one from the center of the court and the Smithie offense was on the go. In three minutes' time Tech High had tied the score.

Tech High did some good guarding also and for the first four minutes of play Boys' High was held scoreless and then Gibbs cut one loose from the center of the court for two points. Boys' High then ran the score up to six before Tech High started.

Playing in the first half was very close after the first ten minutes and both teams gave a wonderful exhibition of good defensive work. The half ended with a 12 to 11. A typical Boys' High-Tech game it was. Both teams resorted to long distance scoring and excellent shooting. The long distance scoring for Boys' High was evenly divided, between Gibbs, Odwayer and Stephens.

Stephens Is Star. Captain Stephens, Odwayer and Gibbs were the stars for Boys' High. Stephens scored a total of 12 points, the majority coming from fouls. Gibbs added four points to the victory by long shots and played a great game of guard. His dribbling and passing was a feature. Jameson played well under the basket in recovering rebounds, and converted two misplays into field goals.

Captain Breck, of Tech High, was the leading scorer of the game with 14 points to his credit. Breck drew much applause from the crowded gallery by his long shots. Woodall and George also played a good game for the Smithies. George recovered many seemingly impossible chances from Boys' High players.

W. DAMEN IS GOLF WINNER

Macon, Ga., February 23.—Willie Damen, of the Selma Golf club, Selma, Ala., won the professional golfers tournament here, the final round of which was played this afternoon. He made his total for 36 holes, 145.

Freddie McLeod, of the Columbia Country club, Washington, D. C., finished second in the tournament, his total score for the 36 holes being 148. McLeod's card for today was 75.

16 GAMES IN S. S. LEAGUES

Six games are on the schedule for the Sunday school games tonight at Central Y. M. C. A. Some of the leading teams will be together, but some very close scores will be the result.

The game between the Pep class and the Agoda Feds should prove good for both are anxious to tick this one under their belt.

St. Luke's Episcopal will cross with the Wesley A. C. and when these two teams, composed of masters of the game, meet, a game worth going far to see will result.

The last time these two teams met, one of the best games of the season was played.

Word was received by Captain George Bower, recruiting officer for the marine corps in the postoffice building Friday that Corporal I. D. Mitchell, formerly of Newman, Ga., had been presented with a gold medal by Brigadier General Eli T. Cole, U. S. M. C., in command of the military camp at Parris Island, S. C., recently.

Mitchell, a former all-star college football player, joined the marines a year ago at the Atlanta office, and upon his arrival at the Parris Island station he joined the team. The Parris Island marine team, of which he was a member, played a large number of games last year and lost but few. At a supper held recently at that station, Mitchell and the other members of the 1922 football team were each presented with a gold medal.

GOOD SHOES ARE EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

"Gray Dusk"

BY OCTAVUS ROY COHEN

Next Week, "The Little Nugget"
By P. G. Wodehouse

A gray pallor crept slowly over the face of Mart Farnam; his hand clenched and unclenched spasmodically; his eyes widened and a look of infinite terror dawned in them. He gazed upon Carroll as though upon the superhuman. His knees trembled and he clutched the edge of the table for support.

But he was no more surprised than was Sheriff Potter. That dignitary was staring pop-eyed at Carroll.

The bolt had fallen from the blue. Throughout the case Jim Sullivan had rather pitied Carroll whose personal interest seemed to have warped an usually sober judgment and analytic genius. He had seen his superior apparently blind himself to the possibility that Stanford Forrest, the man against whom the evidence most strongly pointed, was guilty.

Farnam walked to a chair where he sat nervously, staring at his nemesis. And as Carroll did not speak the accused man licked dry lips and muttered—

"That's a lie!"

"It's the truth!" Carroll's closed-clipped words cut incisively through the pregnant atmosphere of the dining room. "You killed Mary Forrest!"

Farnam's voice rose shrilly; broke—"I didn't kill her. I wasn't near her."

"How do you know?" It was Sheriff Potter speaking. He scraped his feet nervously on the floor. "How do you know, Carroll?"

"By a dozen different ways, Sheriff. I'd rather that he confess—"

"I didn't do it! I didn't do it!" Farnam's voice came in a weak unconvincing moan. "I swear I didn't kill her."

"Tell us how you know?" begged Potter.

"Well, . . . " Carroll hitched his chair forward. His eyes roved unwaveringly into those of a Mart Farnam. "I'll admit that from the beginning I was biased. I started my investigation with the premise that Stanford Forrest was innocent. You had the same hunch, Sheriff, so you can understand my feelings; I who grew up with him and was closer to him than a brother could ever have been.

"I can thank Potter Devarney for his sister's happiness and the establishment of Stanford Forrest's innocence; and this is what he said—

"In discussing the case with him, he mentioned that he had come from Averyt—whom he called Hoston—with a message to his sister. Averyt wanted to see her. He says he met Esther on the road walking toward the cabin and promising that she knew he was at the cabin, he did not mention to her that there were strangers at the lodge and she subsequently went there.

"But the telling point that Potter makes was his statement that he walked farther down the road toward the village where his folks and Mart Farnam live, and that he was walking in the woods hoping to get a shot at some sparrows. And he said quite naively that he saw Mart Farnam—walking toward the lodge!"

"His casual statement was so vital that it made me gasp. For several days before, Esther Devarney mentioned that while she was on her way to the lodge she met Mart Farnam walking away from the lodge. His own statement substantiated that. He said that he had been at a place called Nixon's Cross roads drinking moonshine liquor. He also said that he went straight on home, which statement was given the lie by young Devarney's remark that Farnam had turned around."

"In brief—Farnam had met the girl, waited until she had gone a considerable distance, and had then turned to follow her!"

"Both he and the girl admitted that they had quarreled more or less when they met on the road. They both said that he was drunk. Therefore, there must have been some sinister motive in his trailing her . . . but most important of all, if he followed her and she went to the lodge, he too, must have gone to the lodge!"

"And having once convinced myself that Mart Farnam had gone back to the lodge on the evening of the ninth, I remembered that he had lied about it. And no man lies about a thing like that unless he has something to conceal."

"Mart Farnam once involved in my mind, it didn't take me long to remember purely physical clues which I had noted more or less subconsciously and stored away for future reference."

"For instance: the footprints, Sullivan will remember that the footprints were large—broads. Also that the shoes which made them were run down at the heel. You may look at Farnam's shoes yourself, you can see the answer to that."

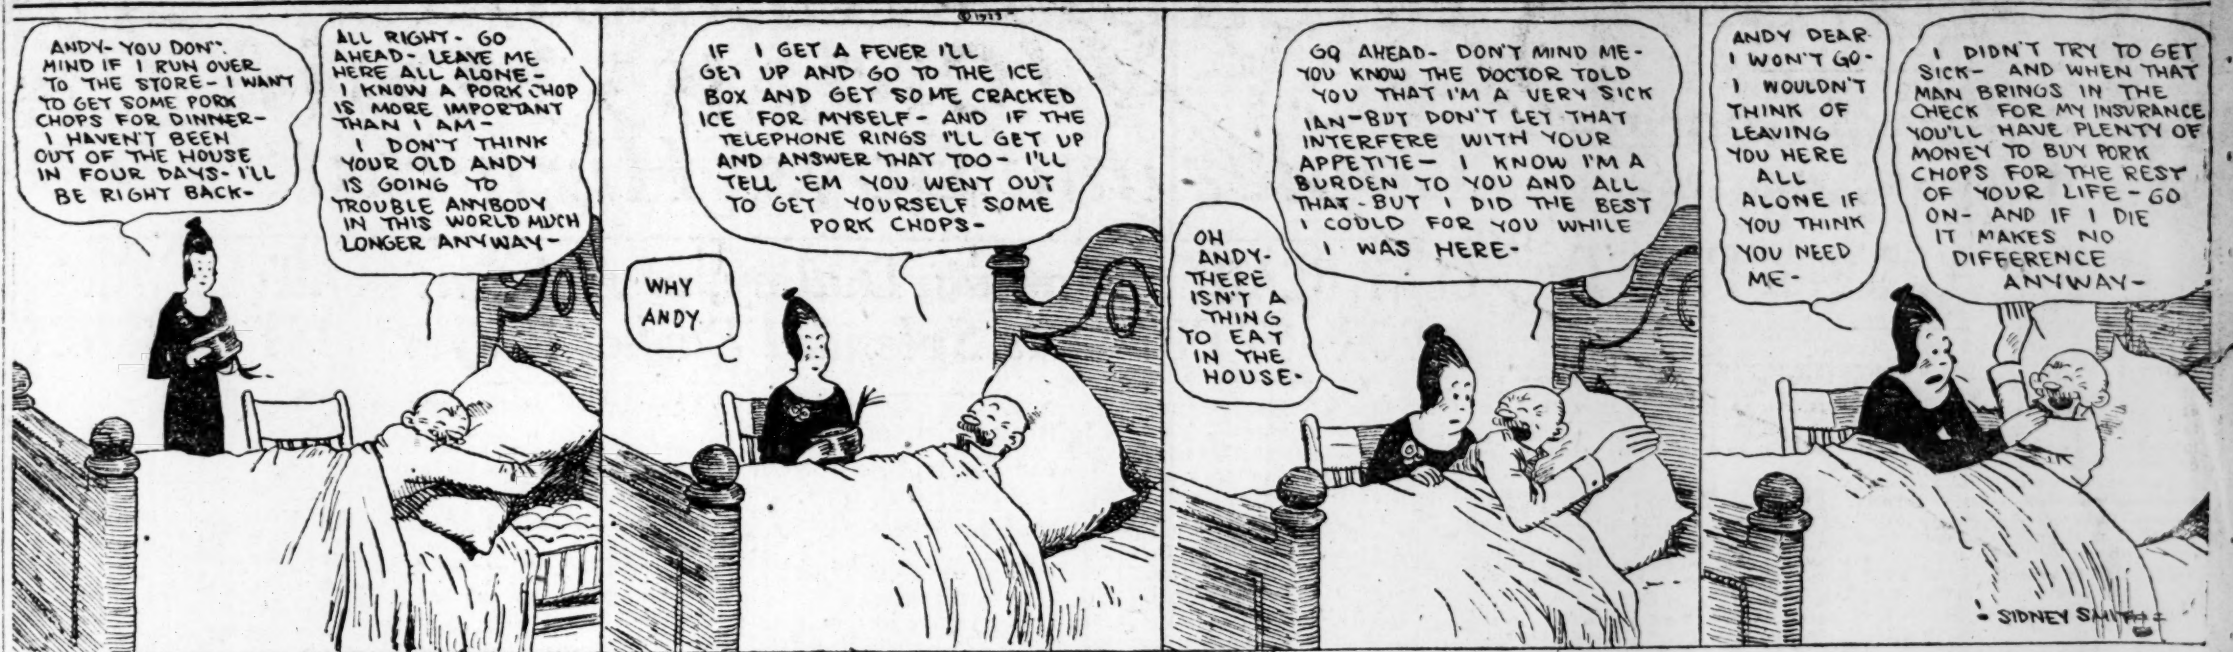

"More, I had noticed at first, and I noticed again later that Farnam's shoes had two red spots. Looked like clay at first. But those spots were made by blood as the body of the dead woman slid to the floor. He hadn't noticed them. He ran from the house and his shoes became pretty well covered with dust. And he would never have looked for blood on his shoes unless it had been flagrant. He has the same shoes on now—the spots are plain, if you look for them."

"Now then you will remember, Jim, that the day Farnam drove us out to the place he drove with his right hand entirely. Scarcely used his left. The third and fourth fingers of his left hand were badly bruised. The fingernails were blackened and looked very ugly."

"The way the crime happened was this: Mrs. Forrest had gone to the ice-box, she was bending over it and holding it open. She was struck from behind by Farnam. She fell. But he, before he struck, had braced himself by grasping the edge of the chest with his left hand."

"As Mary fell she let the cover to the ice-box fall. It smashed the two fingers of Farnam's left hand. Which explains that part of it."

"Now for the next. You will notice that there are traces over Farnam's right eye of a long vertical bruise. Memory of that bruise came back to me in a flood after I once suspected him. The explanation of it is simple. 'You will remember, Jim, that I made you rehearse the crime with me. And that as you were supposed to fall—simulating Mrs. Forrest—I turned swiftly, in supposed terror, grabbed the screen door open. . . .

"And the chances are ninety-nine out of a hundred that a man in such circumstances and in such a hurry would slam himself on the forehead with the screen door. He would run right into it. Try it yourself some time, Sheriff; and you'll understand."

"That was what Farnam had tried to do. The door had struck him a hard blow on the forehead; hard enough to leave the mark of which traces still remain."

"But there is one clue which is more important than all the others. Jim will recall that when the ice-box fell it smashed a bottle of imported olive oil which evidently had been taken out by Mrs. Forrest and placed on the ledge. The falling cover which smashed Mart's hand also smashed that bottle of olive oil."

"The oil was splattered for a considerable distance. It is a heavy substance and spurted out in large blots. Now then, in substantiation of my contention that Farnam was standing at the ice-box gripping it with his left hand you will see—"

"There!" he said. And his finger pointed to the large greasy smudge under the left armpit which he had noticed the day he arrived in Karnak.

"He, himself, said that he did not know there were strangers at the lodge. Yet he killed a woman there, and he must have struck instantly as he entered the screen door to the back porch. Why, then, would he kill this strange woman?"

"And the answer came to me after careful thought: He killed Mary Forrest without knowing that it was Mary Forrest!

"That conclusion was inevitable, and once I had convinced myself of the fact the rest came more readily. I knew that Mart Farnam was deeply in love with Esther Devarney. I knew that she had rejected him in favor of George Averyt. I knew, from Farnam's own lips, that he truly suspected that their relations were not of the kind to have stood the glare of the spotlight. The belief was absurd, of course, and could have emanated from no mind but the warped one of Farnam. But I will do him the justice of saying that I believe he thought it."

"He did not know that the lodge was occupied; certainly he did not know that there was a woman there. He had been at Nixon's drinking—and as he himself said, drinking heavily. His own words were 'I licker whenever I get a good square chawst."

"In brief, he walked from Nixon's toward his home—more or less drunk. He met the girl. He asked her to throw Averyt aside and marry him. She refused. She probably refused too curtly. He imagined, and correctly, that she was going to meet her lover."

"Such circumstances give rise to passion which will commit murder. He followed her—followed craftily. Potter Devarney saw him going in the same direction that the girl had taken. And Farnam followed her to the lodge."

"He thought that Averyt was still living there. He saw the girl enter the lodge. He waited. But the girl found the lodge empty. That was the time—in the gray dusk of the evening when figures are dim at the lodge and almost indistinguishable—that Mary Forrest had gone down to the river to speak to her husband."

"Esther Devarney found the house occupied. She walked the length of the dog-trot, across the veranda and out of the front toward the cabin along the river path. She could scarcely have been more than out of sight when Mary Forrest returned to finish her salad dressing."

"The drunk and impassioned Farnam, his worst suspicions apparently proven, saw a woman whom he thought was Esther engaged in the domestic task of fixing dinner for the man whom he most hated. Believe me when I say that men have committed murder for less."

"The rest is simple. He crossed the grounds, blinded with the murder lust; he flung open the screen door. The ice-pick was handy on the table. He seized it and struck—struck to kill—thinking that he was killing Esther Devarney."

"And then he saw his mistake. He sobered on the instant. He grabbed the screen door, injured his forehead. He ran from the lodge. He went home."

Carroll finished speaking. There was an oppressive silence in the room. A silence broken only by the labored breathing of Mart Farnam. And it was Mart Farnam who spoke; terror of the future in his whining voice—

"I didn't go to kill her. . . . I didn't go to kill her. . . . " Carroll rose. He looked drawn and tired.

"I'd be obliged, Sheriff, if you'd turn Stanford Forrest out. He's suffered a good deal. . . . "

Potter tossed him the key to Forrest's cell. "Let him out yourself, son. You've earned that pleasure."

THE END.

SOMEBODY'S STENOGR—The "Unknown Admirer"Coasting Down Popocatepetl On a Straw Mat.

(From Popular Mechanics Magazine.)

Volcanoes, nature's fiery manifestations of the continual unrest prevailing in the depths of earth, are sources of never-ending interest to man. No exception to this general rule, even though it has been dormant for more than a century, is Popocatepetl, the great volcano 50 miles southeast of Mexico City, Mexico. Every year many tourists journey to that country for the purpose of ascending the historic mountain.

Once at the summit, a wonderful view is presented. Far below, in the valley, is seen the tropical vegetation in all its brilliant coloring. Farther up, the ending of the "tropical zone" may be plainly distinguished, seemingly within a stone's throw of each other. Still higher may be clearly perceived the joining of the "temperate" to the "frigid zone."

Turning away from this beautiful and strange panorama, descent is made into the volcano to the crater floor.

"Climbing out of the immense cavity, the descent from the rim, over the expanse of glistening snow, to the timber line, is begun. During this portion of the return trip a thrill hunter, with a liking for speed, has an opportunity to satisfy his desire in that respect. The ordinary procedure is for the guide to sit upon a common straw mat, with the tourist behind and tightly clasping him around the waist. The experienced native then grasps the front end of the mat in one hand, turning it up in the form of a toboggan and, by means of the alpenstock, held in his other hand, "pushes off" for the start down the steep incline. Gathering momentum quickly, the mat is soon literally flying over the snow of the route, skillfully avoiding the deep crevasses and protruding boulders, by quick use of his alpenstock, and shortly makes a safe "landing" at the edge of the timber line.

"The way the crime happened was this: Mrs. Forrest had gone to the ice-box, she was bending over it and holding it open. She was struck from behind by Farnam. She fell. But he, before he struck, had braced himself by grasping the edge of the chest with his left hand."

"As Mary fell she let the cover to the ice-box fall. It smashed the two fingers of Farnam's left hand. Which explains that part of it."

"Now for the next. You will notice that there are traces over Farnam's right eye of a long vertical bruise. Memory of that bruise came back to me in a flood after I once suspected him. The explanation of it is simple. 'You will remember, Jim, that I made you rehearse the crime with me. And that as you were supposed to fall—simulating Mrs. Forrest—I turned swiftly, in supposed terror,

Miss Watts Is Honor Guest
At Lovely Dancing Party

Miss Idaline Watts, of Baltimore, Md., lovely young daughter of Mrs. Harry Watts, was the central figure at a dancing party Friday evening, at which Austell Thornton entertained at the home of his grand-mother, Mrs. Albert Thornton, Sr., on Peachtree.

The handsome home was artistically arranged with large vases of spring flowers, together with foliage plants. The table in the dining room was covered with an exquisite underlaid and Venetian point lace cloth and a large silver basket of bright flowers graced the center. During the evening a delicious supper was served.

The guests were received in the drawing room by Mrs. Albert Thornton, Sr., and Miss Watts, who were assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Harry Watts, Mrs. Albert Thornton, Jr., and Miss Elizabeth Kontz.

Mrs. Thornton wore a handsome gown of black chiffon with jet trimmings.

The young honor guest was lovely in a frock of yellow taffeta.

Mrs. Watts wore a gown of old rose brocade.

Little Audrey Watts and Vaughan Nixon presided at the punch bowl.

The guests included 100 members of the younger set, and were: Miss Mary Armstrong, Angel Allen, Barbara Adams, Estelle Burton, Isabel Reichenbach, Josephine Clark, Laura Candler, Helen Callaway, Helen Cady, Ruth Dodd, Palmer Dill, Jane Dillon, Virginia Eckford, Rosella Gandy, Mary Goldard, Frances Floyd, Lucille Howard, Virginia and Frances Howard, Florence Hewitt, Mary Harris, Isabel and Pamela Johnston, Anise Jones, Clara Belle King, Lena Knox, Vera Kasper, Margaret Kemp, Martha Lewis, Augustus Lortz, Lela Mason, Mary Moseley, Mrs. Ouse, Elsie Prater, Grace Powell, Mary Ann Pender, Marion Wolf, Virginia White, Edna Rader, Josephine Riehl, Virginia Smith, Ann Spaulding, Jane Tway, Margaret Underwood and Luis Lewis, Moore, Thomas Arnold, George Adair, Charles Andrews, Lloyd Armstrong, Kelly and Frank Boland, Tony Biling, Louis Brandon, Stephen Barnett, Ben Lee Crew, Edgar Chambers, Dora Dean, Franklin Carter, Dan Dougherty, Robert Buckworth, Tom Daniels, Jack Donagan, Lawrence Decker, William Franklin, Richard Flinn, Brian Gray, Francis Galt, Wilbur and Wadley Glean, John Gwinn, Tom Haman, Charles Humphries, Lloyd Hatcher, George Hanson, Harvey Hill, Sam Imman, Frank Imman, Henry Johnson, Wilson Keen, Ernest Kontz, Stephen Lynch, Hugh Toker, Joyce Toker, Leonard and Edward Richardson, Nevil Reed, William Taylor, William Bennett, Cyrus Strickler, Lloyd Cohen, Edward Sernas, William Tuller, Jack Tway, Harry Thompson, Albert Taylor, Joe High Williams, Guy Woodford, George Willis, Jr., Wolf, Robert Wolf, Charles Willis, James Watkins, Jim Williams, Weldon Sator, Alex Hopkins, Lindsey Hopkins and Frank Carter.

Poster Contest
To Be Held
Each Saturday

The poster contest being scheduled by the better film committee for the children who attend the children's matinees each Saturday at the Howard and Alpha theaters will close with the entries received on Saturday morning, February 24, and awards will be made the following Saturday.

These posters are being done by the children who receive instruction in poster work at the schools and each poster is designed to set forth the advantages of children attending their own matinee programs instead of adult shows. Many of the posters are remarkably clever and much interest in the subject is manifest in the schools as this contest correlates directly with school work. The prizes are passes to the matinees and increase from the third prize of three passes to the first prize of ten passes.

The Saturday program at the Howard will offer the exceptionally fine screen version of Washington Irving's famous "Legend of Sleepy Hollow," done by Will Rogers. The picture bears the creepy name, "The Headless Horseman," and Will Rogers has the part of Ichabod Crane. This is one of the big things in the screen world, setting forth a fine actor's conception of a literary classic in a fascinating pictorialization.

The remainder of the screen program will be made up of a Hy Mayer Travelogue depicting "Such Is Life in Amsterdam," an F. B. O. film showing among other interesting things cheese making as it is done in Holland, and a Pathe cartoon film setting forth an Aesop fable.

Miss Myra Graves has arranged to have the second grade from Goldsmith school present a George Washington dance and a very special show-up of a George Washington reel is scheduled as an addition treat on the bill.

To every child attending on Saturday will be given a card of invitation to mother, which will admit mother as the guest of the better film committee at the matinee on Saturday, March 3. The matinee on that day is to be Mother's day, according to announcement made by Mrs. Porter Langston, chairman of selected program, at the Atlanta better film luncheon on Thursday.

Mother's day will be celebrated at the Alpha, also, and invitations will be distributed on Saturday, February 24, to the boys and girls who attend in order that their mothers may all come the following Saturday.

The Alpha program this week will offer the sixth episode of "Around the World in Eighteen Days," featuring William Desmond; this episode is "The Living Sacrifice." This Consolidated picture is very pleasing to the average youngster.

There will be a two-reel Charlie Chaplin First National picture, "Pay Day," and a two-reel Consolidated comedy featuring Brownie, the wonder dog.

Mrs. W. P. Lemmon, chairman of chaparrons, announced that the assisting chaparrons at the Howard will be Mrs. A. Young, and Mrs. S. A. Ruder, and at the Alpha with Mrs. G. H. Guy will be Mrs. K. P. Mayson.

DAILY CALENDAR OF SOCIAL EVENTS

Mrs. S. Thomas Gardner will entertain at a luncheon today at the Capital City club in compliment to Mrs. Walter Palmer, of New York, and Mrs. Paul Kendrick, of Middleton, Conn.

The G. N. I. C. club will give a tea at the Atlanta Woman's club this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The home-coming concert of the Emory Glee club will be given at the Atlanta theater.

The regular dinner-dance will be given at Piedmont Driving club.

A dance will be given this evening at Habersham hall, sponsored by the Joseph Habersham chapter, D. A. R.

The Kappa Alpha fraternity will hold the annual get-together dinner at the alumni chapter this evening.

Miss Evelyn Jackson's school of music will give a students' recital this afternoon.

The members of Fulton chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will entertain the veterans of Soldiers' home with a George Washington party this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Miss Inman
Gives Bridge
For Visitors

Miss Louise Inman entertained informally at bridge Friday evening in compliment to Misses Janet Lewis and Wilma Prentiss, of Greenville, S. C., the guests of Mrs. Phillip Alston, and Miss Sarah Matthews, of Thomaston, Georgia.

The reception rooms were adorned with vases and baskets of jonquils together with potted plants.

Miss Inman received her guests wearing a dinner frock of blue chiffon. Miss Matthews was lovely in a frock of gold lace.

Twenty-four guests were invited to meet the visitors.

Kappa Alpha Dinner Will Be
At the Chamber of Commerce

The annual dinner given by the Kappa Alpha fraternity will take place this evening at 8 o'clock in the assembly hall of the chamber of commerce and will be an event of special interest and importance.

The speakers will be Bishop Mikell, Dr. W. L. Melton and Dr. Ashby Jones.

So many requests have been made for a repetition of the model initiation held last year that this will again be a feature of the evening.

It has been a time-honored custom for all good Kappa Alphas to get together on the birthday of Robert E. Lee, January 19, to celebrate the founding of the order, and to express admiration of the great man whose high principles are embodied in it. The alumni chapter had purposed to do this, as usual, this year, but the chapter at Emory university had planned for an important celebration with which the meeting on January 19 would conflict and the date was changed to Saturday night. All Kappa Alphas are urged to attend.

The Kappa Alpha fraternity is the only fraternity in Atlanta having chapters at Tech, Emory and Oglethorpe.

Among the prominent Atlanta members of the Kappa Alpha fraternity are Mel R. Wilkinson, Dr. William Perrin Nicholson, Sr., Dr. William P. Nicholson, Jr., Dr. K. G. Matheson, Clark Howell, Judge John S. Candler, Milton Dargatz, Judge Ernest Kontz, Ex-Governor Hugh Dorsey, Senator Harris, Judge Thomas Jeffries, John Westmoreland and Judge Frank Harwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Chipley Give Informal Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunt Chipley entertained informally at dinner Friday evening at their home on Wesley road, in compliment to General and Mrs. David Stanks, of Fort McPherson, who are popular members of the military circles. Spring flowers in artistic arrangement adorned the center of the table. Covers were laid for eight.

Woman's Club
Teas Assemble
Many Parties

The Atlanta Woman's club, on Peachtree street, was the scene of many delightful parties on Friday afternoon, when members and their friends assembled for the regular weekly tea.

Handsome palms and ferns and quantities of red carnations and hydrangeas decorated the club rooms, which were also draped with American flags. The prettily appointed tea tables held in the center clusters of jonquils.

One of the interesting parties of the afternoon was the tea at which Mrs. J. W. Fielder entertained complimentary to Mrs. K. J. Fielder, of Washington, D. C., who is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Logan Crichton.

Mrs. Fielder's guests included Mrs. Fielder, Mrs. Crichton, Mrs. Spencer Atkinson Kirkland, Mrs. O. D. Bartlett, Mrs. Morris Ewing, Mrs. George Cook and Mrs. Aline Fielder Struble.

Mr. Nash is president of the Nash Motor company and is in Atlanta for the automobile show. They have been entertained at a series of informal parties. Next Tuesday Mrs. Martin will entertain at luncheon at her apartment in the Ponce de Leon for Mrs. Nash and the charming visitor will share honors with Mrs. Harry Backus, of North East, Pa., Monday afternoon at an informal tea which Mrs. Hugh Scott will entertain at her home on East Seventeenth street.

Fulton Chapter
Will Honor Veterans.

Fulton Chapter, T. D. C., will entertain the veterans of Soldiers' Home with a George Washington party on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, with Mrs. Charles L. Anderson in charge. The success of the party is assured and she promises an unusual delightful musical program.

Mrs. John M. Slaton Honors
Mrs. Littleton at Luncheon

Mrs. Martin W. Littleton, of Plan-dome, L. I., New York, was the guest of honor at a beautiful luncheon Friday at which Mrs. John M. Slaton was hostess at "Wingfield," her lovely home in Peachtree road.

The mahogany luncheon table was covered with a handsome lace cloth, and in the center a low ebony bowl filled with spring flowers of gay hue made an enchanting spot of color. Ebony candlesticks holding candles of palest rose pink color were placed at intervals about the bowl and bonbonieres filled with mints and bonbons further ornamented the table.

Miss Eastlack Will Present Pupils.

Miss Sarah Adelle Eastlack, of the Eastlack School of Oratory, will present the following pupils in an informal recital this afternoon at 4 o'clock at Edison recital hall: Misses Susie Katherine Robertson, Dorothy Thomas, Mildred Cohen, Kathleen Mennin, Sadie Jones, Pearl Roberts, Florie Sullivan, Nina Guard, Gretel Grogan.

The public kindly invited.

Wanted—Two Husbands

—To save one. Young wife whose husband is in the clutches of two unscrupulous flappers desires to meet two bachelors between ages of twenty and forty. Object: Matrimony

CHAPTER XC. Home Keeping Hearts.

As the ship warped into the wharf Cynthia stared down eagerly over the railing. At first she could see only the crowd of people who had obtained permission to pass the customs officials and greet their friends the moment they left the steamer.

Then suddenly she saw her husband. He was standing a little apart from the other people, staring up at the deck, looking for her. He was thinner than when she had seen him last, and there was a haggard look about his eyes, as if he had been much worried. Involuntarily she held out her hands to him.

He saw her then, and called to her. She was too far away to hear what he said, but his eyes told her his message as plainly as words could have spoken it. She looked down at him for a long, thrilling moment, then turned and ran toward the gangplank, heedless of Lucile, who was rushing along at her side, talking excitedly. "Ted's here; did you see him?" the girl demanded. "Oh, I can't wait to see him. I'll marry him this very afternoon—that is, if he still wants me. He can order me around all he likes! I—oh, no, not that way—he's over here."

But Cynthia had not even heard her. She was running toward the part of the dock where she had seen Roger.

He did not speak, as she ran to him, clutching one of his arms in both hands as if she would never let go. But she never forgot his kiss. There were tears on her cheeks when she found herself sitting in their car, with Roger's arms around her, and she looked up at him, smiling though her eyes were wet.

"You're glad to get back?" he said.

"I'll never be jealous again!"

"Oh, glad! Roger, I'll never be jealous again," she exclaimed.

"I hope you'll go on caring enough for me to be jealous of me," he answered promptly. "Only—well, there wasn't any reason for it, you know. I didn't mean to be so attentive to Monica; she'd told me about this man she eloped with back home, who was killed, but made me promise not even to tell you. And she said she had to talk to someone about him. Oh, I was a fool, dear, but if you'll give me another chance—"

"I'm the one who needs that," she told him. "Really I do. I was silly to go around with Bruce so much, only I thought that perhaps it would make you realize that someone else liked me, and that—well, whatever I thought, it was a mistake. And down south there was a man, Brian Gysbert, who—well, I'll tell you about him some other time. He doesn't count now. Nothing counts but you."

He laughed softly as he kissed her again.

"And you?" he said.

"Here we are," cried Cynthia a few moments later, as the car stopped. "Oh, doesn't home look beautiful? Roger, I—I'll never go away again, in any way."

"Not unless you take me with you," he answered. "Ted tells me that he and Lucile are going to be married this afternoon, if he has to chloroform her during the ceremony! And Monica is down at Lakeside with her husband—I haven't seen her since you left, but she phoned me the day she was married, just after the ceremony. So we'll have home to ourselves again, at last."

"Yes," agreed Cynthia, as he closed the front door behind him and took her in his arms. "Only not to ourselves—I'm going to let the whole world in!"

THE END.

Before sending for a carpenter when a door sticks, see if the screws of the hinges are tight. Frequently that is all that is the matter, and a screwdriver will quickly remedy the trouble. Should the door refuse to hold up with just this tightening, try replacing the screws with the next size larger.

What Women Wear

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE

Sticking Little Metal Stars Through Crepe Fabric Sounds Like a Kindergarten Trick. But It Is a New Kind of Handwork in Houses That Ask the Price of Four Gowns For Just One.

On a day in last October two man-nequins walked through the rooms of a dressmaker whose innovations are copied, imitated and (say it in a whisper) often stolen. These two mannequins wore gowns of white georgette crepe covered with tiny silver stars.

Do they represent night in a fancy dress pageant? questioned one woman of another.

They did not. They represented something far more important, a fantastic new fashion which the world of manufacturers leapt upon with eagerness and used with cleverness. Because of their success we will wear frocks with little metal stars clamped through the material, some silver, others bronze, still others green gold, also steel.

When the war was at its worst the French dressmakers behought themselves of using old bits of metal salvaged from the ammunition factories: women's corsets and embroidery and bindings made from fine strips of cast-off metal which the French dressmaking industry could get for nothing. Our little metal stars of the spring are most costly. They are cleverly cut, fashioned with tiny clamps that go through the material and bend over to keep them in place. Some are used on bodices, some on skirts. Rarely does the entire frock show a starry surface.

The sketch shows a new gown of yellow georgette crepe in which the bodice is the foundation for bronze stars. The frock is an Egyptian affair, the kind the dressmakers revived before the world thrilled to the secrets of Tutankhamen's tomb. It has a sarong around the hips fastened in front with a buckle of bronze silk roses. The ends fall in a deep jabot to the ankles. Someone has said that women's new skirts look as if the wind were blowing from the back. It is an excellent description of our present silhouettes. This skirt is no exception of it. Both fullness and ornamentation come in front. The back is pure Egyptian, pure pre-Christian. It is pulled across the figure as court plaster is applied to skin.

Whatever else one does with a skirt, it appears that a jabot must go in front. A jabot is a broad word, allowing much liberty. It takes the form of flat pleats, of gathered panels, of circular godets. Again, it's just a jabot, a thing women have worn on their shirtwaists for a half century.

THE HOUSEHOLD

WHO MAKES THE INTRODUCTION?

Sometimes there is an awkward pause when people get together, because all the people do not know each other and no one knows just who should do the introducing. It is a good rule to follow that the hostess of the occasion should do the introductions promptly and distinctly. If outdoors where no one is hostess, then the oldest woman. If Mr. and Mrs. Smith and a woman friend meet a young woman or a young man or a man and woman, it is the duty of Mrs. Smith to make the introductions. If they are accompanied by a young man and they meet a woman or a woman and a man, then Mrs. Smith makes the introductions, but if, accompanied by a man they meet a man, then Mr. Smith makes the introductions.

In books of formal etiquette you will find that statement that introductions made at the country club, in the street or on the sash are not to be regarded as real introductions by the ladies introduced. If they do not wish to be introduced, they have been introduced to a young man, whom they have come upon when the mutual friends, the chances are that the introduction was merely a matter of convenience. If the ladies introduced do not wish to know the man the next time they meet they need not. Good breeding would demand that the man thus introduced should speak to the woman he met in that way providing she noticed him afterwards. Women introduced to each other in this way should not regard the introduction as involving any social acquaintance. That is what the books of formal etiquette say. But with most of us there is little danger of our social position from speaking to persons whom we meet in this way. If you are of recognized social position, then it cannot harm you to speak to any one who has been introduced and if you are or do not hold a high social position then surely you have nothing to fear. It is only the person who wishes she were higher in the social scale than she is who needs to show such coldness.

Raw starch is a good remedy for a cut that is not serious. Wet it and apply thickly as soon as possible.

Embroidery.
The good embroiderer has no knots showing on the back of her piece of fancy work. She runs the thread along the material when she starts a fresh length and then works over the now end.

Mrs. Littleton Declares World In Need of Re-Christianizing

BY BESSIE SHAW STAFFORD.

Mrs. Martin Littleton, better known as "Peggy," was a distinguished visitor in Atlanta Friday. She was a feted guest at many parties all day long.

It was she who lifted her voice and pen in patriotic sentences in an effort to preserve "Monticello," the home of Thomas Jefferson in Virginia, which beautifies a hill in Albemarle county, just across from "Largo," the home of Hollins Randolph, distinguished Atlanta, who, by the way, is a direct descendant of the great democrat who wrote our Declaration of Independence.

Mrs. Littleton was just as unassuming and modest as when I visited her for a talk in her apartment in the Georgian Terrace. She really took no credit at all for her undertaking in trying to save Monticello as the priceless historic possession of the government.

"I must have voiced everybody's sentiments as a patriotic national sentiment, when I urged the buying of Monticello for the purpose of government ownership, for the response throughout the country was instantly in favor of it," said this charming woman. "Congress was going to take immediate action," she said, "but the war program excluded all other business and it could not go on the calendar. However, a group of women in Virginia have persuaded Mr. Levy, the present owner, to set his price upon the property and they now have an option upon it."

"After I lost my son in France I gave up my work and writings, and am just now picking up the threads again."

Orthodox Christian. "I am an old-fashioned woman, believing firmly in the orthodox Christian teachings," continued Mrs. Littleton, "and at present I am trying to interest people in the Bible. No country can be better than this country. The trouble with the world today is that there is too little Christianity. I shall endeavor to lead people back to the study and comfort of the Bible through the sending out of Biblical literature and Bible lessons."

Mrs. Littleton crusaded all over the country and wrote under the pen name of "Peggy." She touched on general subjects and her articles appeared in leading magazines and papers.

Her home is at Plandome, L. I., a pretty village with charming homes, where wooded hills rise as an effective background to Manhasset bay.

The name comes from the two Latin words, plonus and domus, which means, "simple home." All of the land was originally owned by a quiet and cultured Englishman, who gave to his home this name, out of which the present one, Plandome, has been derived.

Her Lovely Home. Mrs. Littleton's home stands on the north drive which sweeps along Manhasset bay, overlooking Kensington, one of the most picturesque residential spots on Long Island. The house is a low, rambling one, very southern in its architectural points, for, you know, Mrs. Littleton was born in Texas, and Mr. Littleton is from our sister state, Tennessee.

Interesting Neighbors. One of her nearest neighbors was Frances Hodgson Burnett, whose "Little Lord Fauntleroy" and "Secret Garden" will live forever in our hearts as will her other stories. Mrs. Burnett's lovely garden, almost as exquisite as her charming stories, leads down to the shores of Manhasset bay.

Nearby, at Port Washington, lives Katharine Norris, the novelist, and Don Marquis, of Atlanta fame, whose play, "The Old Soak," is the greatest hit on Broadway this year, has his home not far away at Port Washington. Here, too, Fontaine Fox, the cartoonist lives, and many other noted writers, singers and artists, have sought refuge on early Long Island's quiet, lovely shores from Manhattan's mad rush and are located at Port Washington, Great Neck, Kensington and Plandome.

BEAUTY CHATS

BY EDNA K. FORBES

LITTLE BEAUTY HINTS.

A great many readers are extraordinarily excited over the fact that white spots appear on the nails. They write and want to know what causes these, and I can only give them all the explanation I have ever heard from reliable people. One is too much time in the blood, another is poor circulation, and a third is bruising. After all, it doesn't really matter what causes them, the thing is that the one cure for them consists in making a mixture of equal parts of turpentine and methyl alcohol, spread on the nails every night. It can be removed in the morning with a little warm olive oil. This will take out the spots, though if there is any tendency towards them, new ones will appear. They are not, however, a disfigurement as many readers think. While on the subject of the nails, if either the finger or toenail is bruised it should be held in water as hot as can be borne for half an hour. Usually this will keep the blood from forming under it and making an ugly mark.

The best way to beautify the feet is to rest them. If you cannot follow out my plan of the other day trying wearing felt shoes slippers whenever possible, indoors and even out. The toes and toenails should be kept in a given scrupulous care, and in this way the feet are left perfectly free most of the time. Sometimes old, ugly nails will drop off and a better looking nail will be found growing underneath which, if allowed to grow without pressure will mature perfectly in shape.

I find that an oily noise or complexion is best treated by washing the skin with warm water and soap, and then coating it for half an hour with starch paste—white laundry starch and cold water. This is good also for enlarged pores and blackheads if it is thoroughly rubbed in.

Creams.—The reason why you have not succeeded with creams on your skin is due to a sluggish condition. This accounts for the intense dryness and the inability of the pores to absorb the cream. Your skin needs stimulating treatments, the kind that will bring the blood to the surface, such as that from the vibrator. Alternate hot and cold water would help also.

Since all soap irritates your skin, stop using it and cleanse the pores entirely with either a fine vegetable oil or a cleansing cream. Remove with hot damp cloths and then follow with a fine cream and follow with a very light touch from the vibrator. This will bring the blood to the skin and start the pores to secrete. Remove surplus cream and rub with a small piece of ice, or dash very cold water over the face and throat.

If you still feel that you would like to use soap and water on the complexion, and most people do feel that way, a fine grade soap made from olive oil, such as the best quality castile, will be soothing and cleansing to a skin that will feel drawn and parched after the use of almost any other kind of soap.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

MRS. LINDQUIST TELLS WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Her

Kansas City, Mo.—"I was left in a very serious condition after childbirth and no one thought I could ever be any better. Then came the 'Change of Life' and I was not prepared for what I had to suffer. I had to go to bed at times to be perfectly quiet as I could not even stoop down to pick anything from the floor. I did not suffer any pain, but I was decidedly nervous and could not sleep. For nearly two years I was this way, and the doctor was frank enough to tell me that he could do no more for me. Shortly after this I happened to see in a newspaper an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In a few days the medicine was in the house and I had begun its use and I took it regularly until I was well. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to others when I have the opportunity."—Mrs. MAY LINDQUIST, 2814 Independence Ave., Kansas City, Mo.

Jury Deliberates Only 10 Minutes Before Returning Verdict in Hinesville Trial

Hinesville, Ga., Feb. 23.—A jury of 12 men returned a verdict of "Not Guilty" in the case of Sheriff T. J. Stewart, charged with the murder of a negro, Joe Jordan, on the morning of Feb. 23.

The jury was called to the courtroom at 10 o'clock and after a brief deliberation of only 10 minutes, returned its verdict.

The case was heard in the courtroom of the Hinesville State Prison, where the trial was held.

The jury was composed of 12 men, all of whom were white.

The Way to Succeed

THINGS THAT COUNT

The following is issued by the Committee on Church Co-operation:

It is the little things that count. "Because thou hast been faithful in a very little."

Could he be said to you today? Are you and yours in your home, your work, your city, state and nation, living the reward for faithfulness in handling the things entrusted to your care?

If not, it would be well to examine your life in the light of the Parables of the Pounds, which might be called the Parable of the Little Things.

Some great catalyst was expected by many in that Passover throng moving toward Jerusalem a few days before the crucifixion of our Lord. Instead of the cross between two thieves, men like James and John, looked for the immediate appearance of the Kingdom of God with Jesus enthroned as King.

James and John even asked that they might sit on either side of His throne.

Then Jesus taught that he who would be great in His Kingdom must begin by becoming a little child, and by making himself the servant of all. And to disabuse the minds of those who thought that the Kingdom was to immediately appear in a moment of time, Jesus said:

"A certain nobleman went into a far country to receive for himself a kingdom and to return." Before leaving, the nobleman called each of his servants and gave them one pound each, saying: "I am going into a far country; you are to keep my money and trade with it as you see fit."

When he returned, he found that each of his servants had gained a profit. One had gained 100 percent, another 50 percent, and so on.

But one servant had not gained anything. He had kept his pound and had not traded with it.

Jesus said to the servant who had not traded: "You wicked and slothful servant, why didst thou not trade with my money and gain interest?"

Jesus said to the servant who had not traded: "You wicked and slothful servant, why didst thou not trade with my money and gain interest?"

Jesus said to the servant who had not traded: "You wicked and slothful servant, why didst thou not trade with my money and gain interest?"

Jesus said to the servant who had not traded: "You wicked and slothful servant, why didst thou not trade with my money and gain interest?"
